where upon a castle wall shook a knight in rusty armor. His tin attire squeaked as he shook, and when he began to pray, he found he was squeaking too. "This is Sir Charles, paging God." He paused to give God time to put his lance away and get off his horse. "I would like to file a complaint with the K.M.D." (Knight Manufacturing Dept.) Charles took a deep breath. "Someone up there let a knight slip by with a song in his heart instead of courage, and a tuba in his hand instead of a lance, and a preference for dragons rather than damsels. J don't think it's very funny, and I'd like to make an exchange." Charles expected thunder, lightning and an earthquake; but the wind became still and a heavy silence settled on the trembling knight. He thought he (cont. next pg.)

Characteristic of registration are long lines, misunderstood directions, various forms, endless red tape, an empty checkbook, and that one last signature to obtain. All of these amazingly mold themselves into an experience that nothing but an institution of higher education can offer.

Montgomery Fieldhouse is the setting for our two day challenge against frustration, and a barage of insistent secretaries, probing advisors, and designated duties are the opponents. Although baffled by the experience, a sense of comradery unites the 'registrees' engaging them in new and renewed friendships. INITIATION

Whereas; All incoming freshmen have overblown egos, Whereas; it is unseemly for the lowly to exhibit the manners of their betters, and, Whereas; freshmen are insufferable anyway, Be it resolved that; demeaning ordinances such as: a pajama parade at dinner, and a "don feminine apparel night", be accented by attempts to eat with straws while wearing paper sacks over heads, and earning dimes by carrying the books of an upperclassman, be applied to the freshman population. That; all the while an infamous group of sophomores, formally called the Bib Squad, will apprehend all insubordinate freshmen and take their names for later reproach. That; the symbol of initiation throughout the initiation proceedings. He left us with an upstarting expanse of growth ahead; he left in us a desire to explore that expanse.

Junior Class Sponsors Haunted House

The Junior Class put in many long hours and lots of hard work to make the Haunted House an eerie and financial success. On Friday, October 27, the condemned West Junior High gym was transformed into a chilling terror. A host of forty creatures occupied the premises over Halloween. In four nights, 2,000 unwary victims were led through the dark doors. They crept, crawled, and screamed their way past dungeon chambers, operating tables, grave yards, a maze, live manniquins and more. The dreadful sounds coming from the old school grounds could be heard for blocks. Waiting in line was an ordeal as rumors swept the crowd. The arrival of an ambulance sent many into a cold sweat and convinced others that this forboding horror was too much. Those that stayed and endured the hideous horror of the haunted house were treated to the most frightening experience this side of Transylvania.

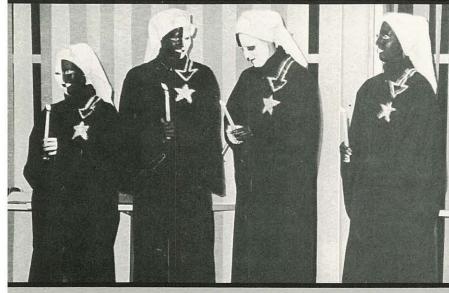

Contrary to popular belief, the college population here at NNC does retreat to its childhood days and prances about gleefully in the silliness of youthful folly. A prime example is the hodge-podge of characters discovered in the dining hall during ASNNC's Halloween party. Traditional clowns, Raggedy Anns, and cowboys mingled with the more contemporary figures of the rock group KISS. Terry Smith, emcee for the party, conducted chicken races, carmel-covered-onion-eating contests, and costume competition. During the festivities Terry, aided by Gordon Harter, threw handfuls of candy to the crowd. Once retreated into childhood memories of past Hallow-

Tired muscles, aching, blistered feet, and a sunburn, were the consequences for many who participated in the annual Society Walk Race, which was held on September 30. Over 100 people voluntarily subjected themselves to compete in the event.

Each of the six societies had a participant for every 15-minute slot, so the action continued all afternoon. Walking as fast as possible without breaking stride was a challenge for many.

The ADP's met the challenge, and accomplished the most laps around the sidewalk by Wiley Learning Center, becoming the winners of the 1978-79 Society Walk Race.

Three times during the school year the game room and student center lounge were transformed into a makeshift medical center somewhat resembling that of a first aid station on the front lines. And appropriately so, 350 students retreated to this center from the heat of academic battle. They were taken in by a group of women in white uniforms who quickly took temperatures, checked heartbeats, and tested blood. Diagnosis concluded that these battered students were suffering from a simple disease called "voluntarious", which culminates in the victim giving one pint of blood to the Snake River Red Cross Center. This disease contained no harmful side effects apart from temporary dizziness and weak knees. The nurses on duty were pleased with the recovery reports, since blood drive goals were surpassed. The students were treated with donuts and orange juice and released, after allowing for an adequate convalescing period, to the barrage of studies awaiting their return.

TIME... for memories to be nurtured to permanence, friendships to be rekindled through recollections of past college days, and students to push aside their academic duties to plunge into a variety of festive activities. Homecoming always serves a variety of purposes to a variety of people. This year alumni returned to share remembrances of their college years, by attending banquets, through a special chapel, and undoubtedly through many long visits. An invitation to all NNC graduates who have become doctors brought a fine group of medical personnel to the campus, while the Jogathon attracted fans of Jim Ryan and other dedicated tracksters ready to break-in their new running shoes. The students attended concerts, bonfires, and in general, prepared themselves for the year's first basketball game, accented by the presentation of the Homecoming Court and the coronation of a new queen. Visitors spent time browsing through the "Country Store" sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary, and some attended Shakepeare's "Two Gentlemen of Verona", which was performed by NNC's drama students. The gym hosted athletic events, both wrestling and basketball for avid supporters, while SAGA's kitchen kept busy with preparations for both the Thanksgiving and Alumni Banquets. Amid the laughter of long ago roommates recalling their first meeting, the cheers of basketball crowds, introductions of new friends, and tearful good-byes, Homecoming served nothing less that the essentials ... NNC's drama department, under the direction of Dr. Earl Owens, mounted a production of "Two Gentlemen Of Verona," one of Shakespeare's first romantic comedies. It develops around the confused and amusing events surrounding the loves and lives of Valentine and Proteus (played by Dan Farrand and Jerry Cohagan.) The plot centers around the main characters enroute to the court of the Duke of Milan where these two gentlemen entangle their emotions and actions around the age-old theme of love and its perils. Their loves, Sylvia and Julia, (Susan Reed and Julie Jelmberg), with the aid of parents and friends, are forced to turn to various antics in pursuit of their lost loves. Madcap mix-ups combined with shocking revelations involving true identity to provide an evening of entertainment. As is customary with most love stories, the couples become reunited and all the wrongs done to love and friendship are righted.

With Brylcream as king, and red-hot nail polish as queen, the rock and roll of the 50's descended upon the campus with style. After supper the guys and dolls decked out in their latest Salvation Army garb watched the heavy basketball action on the court. The Crusaders won their contest against Lewis and Clark, 88-72. With victory behind them, the crowd of slickers carried their enthusiasm over to the Administration Building Auditorium to catch some music that sent them swinging in their seats. Returning in concert this year were "Crash, Nash, and the Ramblers," and the "TLC's" (Tender Lovin' Chicks). Dynamic appearances by the "Coastals," and the "Bladders" balanced out the concert. The slickers then left the auditorium with its walls shaking to the tune of, "Let's Go To The Hop," and beebopped over to the Malt Shop for sundaes and skits.

With their penny loafers penniless, the satisfied crowd returned home to shed bubblegum wads and narrow ties. The craze to imitate the lifestyle of the 50's, more commonly called Senior Slick, once again handed the campus a full evening of entertainment. So until next year ... "Yowsa, Yowsa, Yowsa!"

Lennie Spooner, Paul Bentley, and others provided the mood-making music while Professor Gaymon Bennet added a note of refinement with his usual antics and romantic illustrations. Highlights of the evening were; the introduction of the Sweetheart Court, a surprise visit by Tim Shepherd, and yes, Rusty Yuly and Karen Babb breaking the photographers camera.

Deciding to travel after being discharged from e army, Homer Smith, the main character, heads est. While driving through the southwest he omes across a group of nuns working diligently in the fields and stops to offer them a hand. After working through the day, and without receiving any pay, Homer stays the night and the next day with the nuns. He continues to stay until he becomes completely swept up in the lives of the nuns and their dream of building a chapel. After preliminary plans the project appears to be too big of a project for Homer to handle and he leaves. But an urging hand from God sends Homer back and consequently he and a group of farmers build the long awaited chapel. A touch of class accented the social life of the NNC students and community members this year in performances given by several vocal and instrumental ensembles. The musical artists came to Nampa in conjuction with the Nampa Concert Series, a program developed by Nampa citizens and NNC's music depart-ment. As chairman of the council, Dr. D.E. Hill, and his cocouncil members, feel the program is a service to the community and to students through exposing them to professional groups and allowing them to participate in cultural events. This year the Concert Series presented four evenings of musical entertainment. In November, soloist Edmund Karlsrud who was accompanied by Men of Song, delighted a large audience with their vocal music. January brought four young men, the Metropolitan Brass, to the Science Lecture Hall where they impressed the audience with an outstanding brass instrumental concert. The month of February was graced by a trio of ladies who played their string instruments with great ability and delicacy, Measure for Measure. The last concert of the series consisted of a husband and wife team who played the piano. Weekley and Arganbright. The total effort of the Nampa Concert Series was received with delight and appreciation this year not only for bringing a change of pace to the musical aspect of the community, but also for bringing an air of musical professionalism and culture to Nampa.

Dr. Timothy Smith and "Andrus Blackwood and Co." shared six days to make the first week of April a spiritual refresher to the student body. For five days Dr. Smith relayed the effectiveness of God's promises through his intellectual knowledge of the Bible. On Saturday night a large crowd of NNC'ers assembled in the gym to hear the up-beat Christian rock music of Sherman Andrus and Terry Blackwood. Winners of the 1977 Dove Music Award, this group impressed the crowd with their versatility. The combination of the two, Dr. Smith and AB and Co., made Spiritual Life Week a time for the campus to refresh spiritual lives and rest in the Lord's spirit.

The list of available activities sparked many spontaneous meetings to make plans.

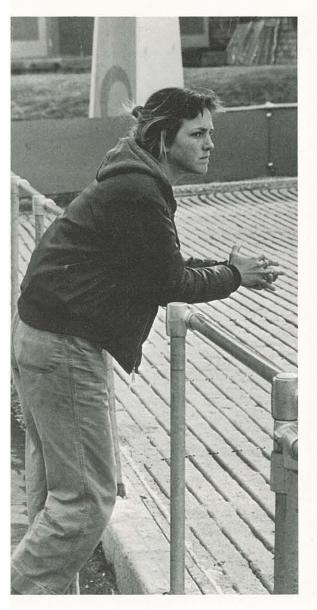

The early morning sun breaking through the windows created a mellow atmosphere for Joylyn Gunter, Paula Hauge, and Steve Peterson to share in song during the Sunday morning service.

As their version of the Junior-Senior Retreat, the Junior class presented to their senior counterparts a twoday stay in Sun Valley, Idaho's famous ski resort town. An Italian style banquet at "Louies" in Ketchum kicked off a weekend of tennis, hiking, shopping, and relaxing in the Jacuzi. Apart from the scheduled activities an assortment of self-made fun flourished. Don Hildebrand, Director of Campus Life in the Medford, Oregon school system, served as guest speaker. In spite of faulty navigation to Elkhorn, Mr. Hildebrand presented a variety of thought-provoking subjects. Not only was the 1979 Junior-Senior Retreat a chance to spend two days at Sun Valley, but more importantly it provided an opportunity for each person to shed the pressures of school, allowing each individual a time for reflection and renewal.

A BIT more precarious than the egg toss, contestants for the class VW race establish their tactics for winning.

PICNIC

Usually scheduled at the beginning of the school year, the All School Picnic greeted spring this year with delight. Nothing, barring the attack of two-million, eight-hundred, and sixty-two giant red ants, dared to try to stop the sun-loving students of NNC in their return to good old-fashioned picnic fun. A team of competitive games and good food pulled the participants through a winning day. With the Egg Toss as a favorite, other activities included: His and Her Softball, Tug-Of-War, Cage Ball, and VW Bug Races. The avid participation of the student body flavored the afternoon's games to perfection. After eating a traditional fried chicken, potato salad, baked beans, and watermelon supper, the contented picnickers headed back to the campus in the glow of the sunset. There is no better way to welcome spring than with the fellowship of school chums, and the sound assurance that twomillion, eight-hundred, and sixty-two giant red ants have wits enough to spend their time going as far away from Nampa, Idaho as their little red legs can carry them.

The Wall Brothers treated NNC to one of its finest concerts of the year on Saturday May 12th. Carrying the audience with soft inspirationals, and energetic displays of fine instrumentalism, the group extended a hour and a half concert to a two-hour musical treat. "We're having too much fun to quit." commented Kraig Wall as the group finished its second encore. They proceeded to dazzle the audience with a combination of their hit "Givin' It Up" and a bass guitar, drum solo. "Usually we go into a place to minister. Tonight you ministered to us." Beyond their talents and willingness to share personal relationships with Jesus Christ, the Wall Brothers displayed a charisma that captured the crowd. The school will surely welcome this group back to the campus with open arms.

Reader's Theatre produced two excellent comedies this year under the direction of Merilyn Thompson. The first was the "Mikado," a twisted plot of love and its torments set in a Japanese motif. The story centered around a young couple who pull their love for one another through lies, falsehoods, and even the threat of an executioner.

The second production of the year was presented to area grade schools. Its quick witty lines and high dramatics captured the children's attention completely. Entitled, "Wiley and the Hairy Man," this production rounded off the year's contribution from Reader's Theatre.

On May 31st at 8:15 p.m. the friends of Melody Clapp assembled in the gym for a joint fundraising event and a good time. A program including Vik Odelberg at the piano, the Northwesterners, a drama group called the Troupe, and others, was highlighted by a beard-removal ceremony. The memorial night added thirteen-hundred dollars to a scholarship in Melody's name and bought the beard of Dr. Dan Berg. The entire evening was filled with hearty laughs, good entertainment and quiet reflections.

Smedes, a professor from Fuller Theological Seminary; a Nazarene missionary from the Dominican Republic, Rev. Louie Bustle and family; Mr. John Perkins, a wellknown black social reformer and founder of the Voice Of Calvary ministeries; and Senator Frank Church from Idaho.

With the imput of these guest speakers and the contributions of a variety of on-campus and local personalities, this year's chapel and convocation requirements were a bit easier to meet.

Nampa's answer to the breaking surf off the coast of California is skimboarding, and NNC dove into the flooded lawns of the campus on Malibu night. This traditional pastime for many Nampans is a new sport to most of the students whose lawns are watered by sprinklers instead of being flooded. Freshmen dominated the competition in skimboarding with their victories overflowing into the frisbee competition as well. Other than imitative Californian fun, Malibu night presented a fine musical and comical evening of entertainment. After a picnic dinner served by SAGA, the "Supremes" kicked off a musical extravaganza. A superb imitation of the Beach Boys was provided by a group of upperclass music students. A film entitled "Sports Oddessy" ended the evening for NNC's aspiring Californians. Although Idaho does not offer the type of summer activities that beach goers love at Malibu, the students enjoyed their sun ... NNC style.

AND THEY ATE, AND ATE,

eat; To take into the mouth and swallow for nourishment, esp. to masticate and swallow, as solid food; devour as food; also, to consume by devouring, to gnaw also.

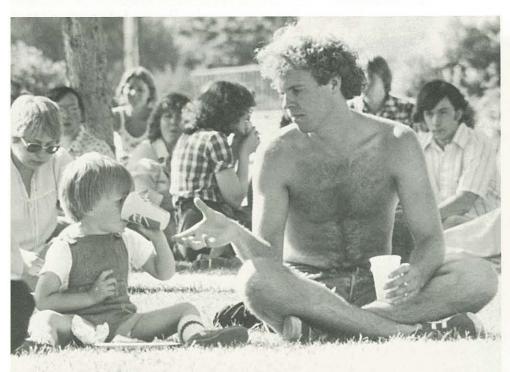

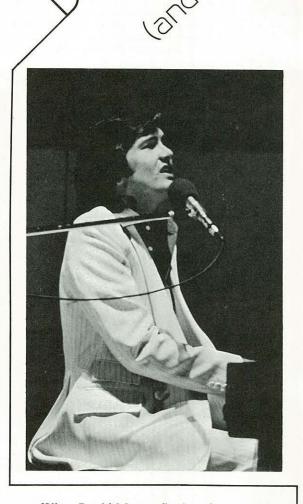

Clockwise spiral below: JEANINE BARTLOW and friend, a "hearty hot dog", at Malibu night ... COLLEEN BULLIS seems to favor the "Get-As-Much-As-You-Can-In-One-Bite" method ... THE ALL-School-Picnic received more participants in the food line than in any of the other competitions ... PHIL DURFEE relaxes with a bit of liquid

ANOTHER ALL-Star food-line participant, Connie Taylor, digs into the tossed salad at Lab Band's outdoor concert ... AN INTERMIT-TENT washing-down period is required by most eating methods. Here Kathy McCauley adheres to the guideline ... RON GILMORE waits patiently for his dinner partner to finish a gulp (with secret hopes that he doesn't finish the whole thing).

Regardless of mood, time of day, or appearance of what was about to be received, they ate. They ate in the dorms, during chapel, on the grass, and three times a day in Saga. It seemed that pizza, milk, hamburgers, and blizzards rated the highest on the list of most-frequently-consumed foods. Chances are this mass of starving mouths will not decrease in number or appetite, but will return next year to consume another record.

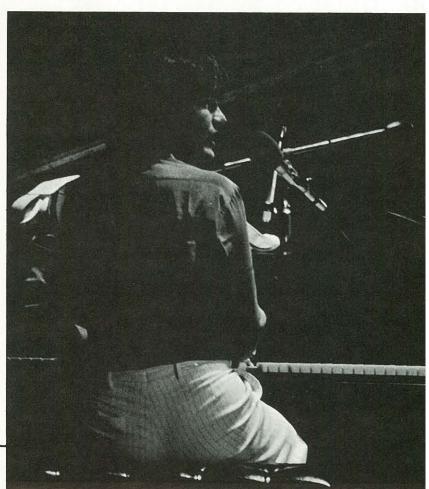

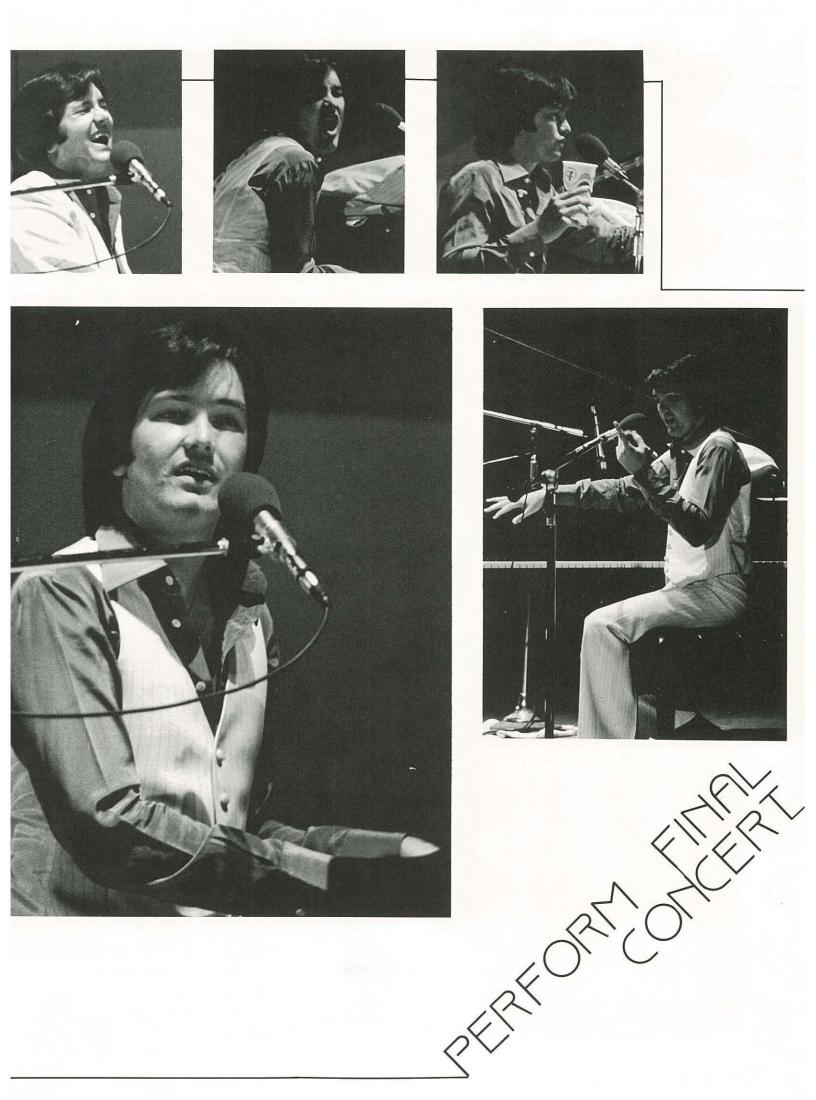

When David Meece, final performer of the year, invited all the men to join in and sing at the beginning of the concert, no one expected him to raise the octave range three or four notches. But that kind of unusual entertainment and vitality characterized this evening of humorous faces and songs. Included in the program was the touching number, "Everybody Needs A Little Help". The song, composed by Meece, was selected as the theme song for the 1980 Muscular Dystrophy Drive. Meece combined talent at the keyboards and vocals with a refreshing ministry that indeed "brought the fieldhouse down".

And now we begin to say good-bye, for we must part and go our separate ways ... But we leave so much stronger ... We have given each other something that will strengthen us on our journeys, the memories of sharing, respect, and love. -George Betts-

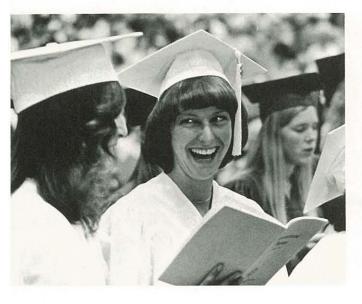

Four years, for some five or more, of attending Northwest Nazarene College, culminated in graduation ceremonies on June 11th, 1979. Over 200 Seniors robed in black, white, or blue walked across the platform to receive their diplomas. The line was long and the majors varied. Two students graduated with a Master of Arts in Education, while 162 graduated with a Bachelor of Arts, or Bachelor of Science, and 39 received Associate of Arts degrees. The day consisted of Baccalaureate service, Commencement exercises, family reunions, recollections of memories, and many tearful good-byes. What had been home for four years, where each individual attended classes, participated in school activities, and developed relationships, was now a part of the past. With exciting futures ahead, the graduating class of 1979 left the campus of NNC to begin a new life.

We came from many places with different dreams, goals, all of us seeking a direction to turn. NNC is not a utopia providing all the answers, but a place where 1,200 students came with their different personalities, thoughts and actions to create this school year.

This was our time; our place for honest expression.

From the palace of Buckingham to the jungles of Congo Congo, and even from Boulder, Colorado, knights ventured to Nampalot to begin the four sweatextracting years of toil, task, and midnight papers through which every knight of the circular pew must endure. There were knights with hearts of fire and nerves of steel, and there were knights with hearts of fizzle and nerves of noodle. There were the infamous knights of the fooseball table, reknowned for quick wrists and few quarters. There were knights of midnight scandal, unsurpassed in strategic egg bombardments and an assortment of unmentionables. And majoring in hankydropping and helpless shrieks, hundreds of damsels in distress came to Nampalot as well. (One knight for every two damsels is a legitimate excuse for distress.)

In this world you must not expect to live where all is harmony. You must not expect to live where others are in unbroken accord with you. The rule of God's kingdom, however, is perfect harmony. Your task then is to maintain your own heart's harmony in all circumstances. This sonorous harmony is yours only when you strain your ear to catch heaven's music.

Presiding over the kingdom of Nampalot reigned King Speargall and his royal counsel of circular pew installers and overhaulers. Under the patient guidance of the royal installers, Sir Charles endured "Fundamentals of Heroism 101" and "Sword Fighting and Your Health 296." However, deviant matters such as excessive cathedral cuts and suggestive walzing were the business of the royal overhaulers, so when Charles was called into the overhauling chamber, he prepared for persecution. An authoritative voice droned, "For saturating the royal moat with bubblebath and dead carp, this counsel finds you guilty of first degree spoliation." Charles gasped (guiltily), and received his brutal sentence: three months of knight desk duty.

NNC is people. It is students reading, writing, questioning, competing, worshiping, learning, making life-long contributions, graduating and making useful adults. It is 1,200 active college students, learning from 75 well-prepared and dedicated faculty persons and supported by a staff of 65. NNC is the 40 members of the Board of Regents who give willingly of their time and money for the advancement of a Kingdom College.

NNC is the 40 members of the Board of Regents who give willingly of their time and money for the advancement of a Kingdom College. In semi-annual meetings they make certain that the objectives and purposes of the 66-year-old institution are being carried out.

It is people like the seven district superintendents of the Northwest Educational Zone who have prayed, supported and cooperated in the recruitment effort and the full payment of the assigned Education Budget.

NNC is a college supported by laymen and ministers in 407 churches with a total church membership of 48,461. These are the living endowment of the college.

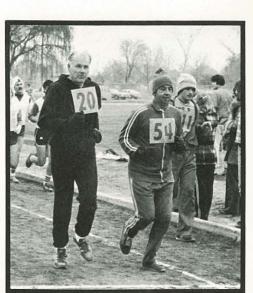

With alumni and friends in the thousands, NNC will always be people-oriented, training youth to be responsible citizens and effective Christians.

Chere comes a time when every knight must fight his dragon. Feeling a definite need to reestablish his pew-like image, Charles pulled a directory from his shelf and ran his lance through the vegetarian section, seeking a dragon of favorable credentials. He decided against Mo the Martyr-maker, the Single-Breath Scorcher, and any dragons belonging to the Barbequer's Union. Then, hidden in the center crease, Charles found One Lung Arnold. The dragon and Sir Charles met at dawn, but had it not been for Charles' superb strategic tactics, Arnold may have never come out from behind his rock. At precisely the right moment, Sir Charles made his victorious charge, but that goes without saying—Everyone knows that knights of the circular pew always get their dragons.

Reaching for something specific, our minds are made physical through these bodies, these complex tools.
Giving to something eternal, life splashes back freshly in our faces, and the feeling of accomplishment cascades down our spines.
We are of one tribe, one band, joined together in soul.
We are Athletes, our common bond. —B. Ann Smith

"DR. HOPKINS expects a lot from each and every member of the team. She wants us to give our time and be totally dedicated. This isn't so hard to do, though, because she is also dedicated to the sport. She spends much of her time in preparing practice and game plans so that we can utilize the talent we have, to be the best team we can be. Though we don't always agree with her philosophies (namely 5:00 a.m. departure times on trips and 2-4-6-8-10's in practice!) we respect and admire her as a coach and friend." -Debbie Rutan

Their only other loss was a non-conference match with BSU; the score was also 4-5. NNC's final record was 13-2. The team placed second in the Inland Valley Conference. NNC and Whitworth were tied at the end of the season, and the league crown was awarded on the basis of individual matches won. Needless to say, the NNC netters were barely edged out. The women place sixth at regionals.

First At NNC Invitational

The 1979 Women's track team took first at their own invitational, along with the men's team.

Chris Pease was the only woman participant at the NCWSA Regionals this year. She qualified at the Eastern Oregon Invitational with a 26.1 time in the 200 meters. Marueen Freitag barely missed the trip with Chris; her lifetime best in the 400 meters hurdles was a fraction of a second short of the qualifying time.

Cross-Country Suffers From

The 1978 Cross-Country season was not one of NNC's best, but it did have its bright spots. Namely, several strong performances by freshman Blake Pridgen and sophomore Shane Miller. Both runners placed consistently high in the standings. Gary Diffee also had some very commendable finishes.

For the most part, the team members were relatively inexperienced at the long distances, and were better suited for shorter distances (880 and the mile). Also, Mark Webb was plagued by injuried throughout the season and was unable to compete at full strength.

Laurie Egger, a freshman, trained with the men's team and competed as an individual when there was a women's race held. She was also conditioning for the Seaside Marathon, but had to stop working out because of an injury.

Luck Calls '78 A Good Year

1978 was the first year the NNC Men's Soccer team competed as a varsity sport. In addition to a 7-2-1 season record, they finished 2nd in NAIA District 2 with only one loss. Also, two members of the squad, Essa Gaye and Jim Tursa, were chosen for the NAIA District 2 All-Star Soccer Team.

During the course of their 10 game schedule, they scored 22 goals to their opponents' 9. That may be partly attributed to NNC's two goalies, Fritz Jenkins and Larry Hooker, who made a total of 73 saves compared to 49 by opposing goalies.

Lettermen for the 1978 season were: Wayne Buck, Steve Burton, Dean Cowles, John Davison, Essa Gaye, Larry Hooker, Fritz Jenkins, Rob Larson, Gary McCarty, Randy Miller, Jon Mingus, Mike Powers, Ken Rowley, Dave Sever, Keith Spicer, Tim Szymanowski, Jim Tursa, Larry Wood and Paul Yacavone.

Mike Johnson received the Taylor Golf Award. It is given annually to the most valuable golfer.

Hard Work Pays Off

The '79 track season wasn't filled with national champions or new school records, but it cannot be termed unsuccessful. Most team members had very limited track backgrounds, but ten of them ran, jumped, or threw better than they ever had in their lives.

Junior Bob Diehm received the Wesley O. Young Track Award for being the outstanding man in track. He competed in the triple jump at the National NAIA Track Meet in Abilene, Texas, but was unable to complete his jumps because of an injury flare-up.

Spartans Win Society Competition

The intramural section is dedicated to Barry Aberle for writing much of the copy for the sports section. He was also an intramural director, and president of Alpha Delta Pi.

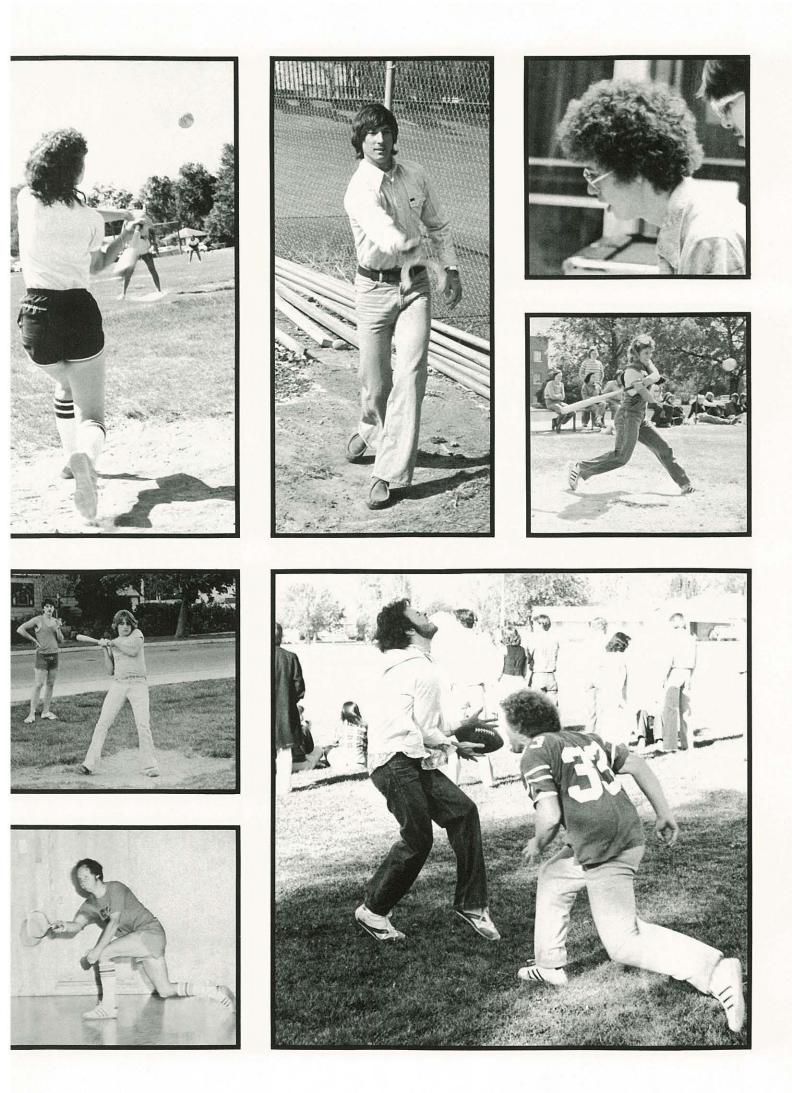

The Spartans won it all this year, for the first time since 1972. Janice Buckmaster (ADP) and Scott Martinez (ADP) were named the outstanding intramural contributors.

This was the first year the intramural program had a Century Club. The Century Club was to award individuals for achievement in certain areas. To receive membership a person had to do their event for 100 miles or hours, depending on the sport. Thirty-five people ran 100 miles to get a membership; Quentin Anderson, Steve Bellomy, Curt Blackwill, Karen Brown, Sandy Brown, Tim Bunn, Tom Bunn, Wade Cook, Kathy Copelin, Ken Courtney, Cyd DeTienne, Martine Dikes, Laurie Egger, Rita Ericksen, Bobbie Fairchild, Lori Fish, Karen Flack, Dion Flaming, Connie Ford, Maureen Freitag, Dennis Friesen, Brenda Hilliard, Sherrie Honeycutt, Pam Jordan, Gary Lyman, Julie L. Miller, Sylvia Nordmo, Lori Jo Palmquist, Chris Pease, Kathy Petersen, Kim Pryor, Peggy Sanders, Donise Vevig, Barbara Wesche and Connie Woolbright. Mike Miller, Teresa Rickard, and Cami Wilkes played 100 hours of racquetball for their membership, and Jodi Keech and Gail Steward swam 100 miles.

The intramural schedule for 1978-79 had a list of other activities to offer students. Among them were: archery, badminton, basketball, billiards, bowling, broom hockey, chess, cross country, frisbee olympics, foosball, football, handball, horseshoes, pickleball, racquetball, softball, table tennis, tennis, a track meet, the walkathon, and winter rook.

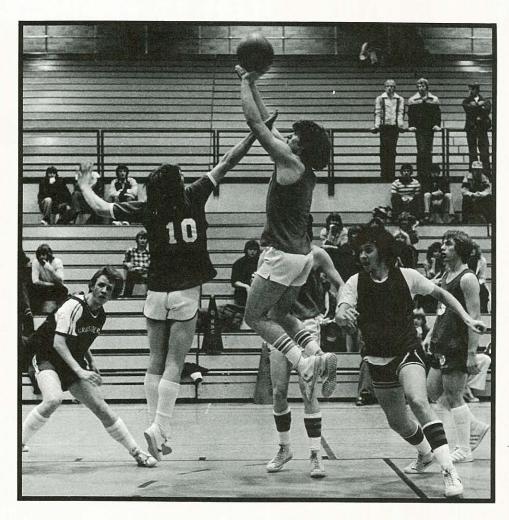

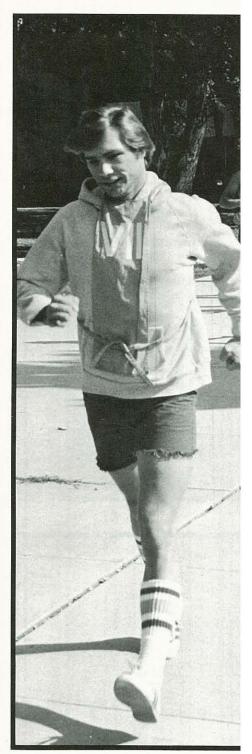

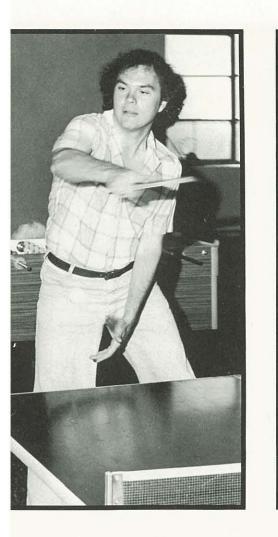

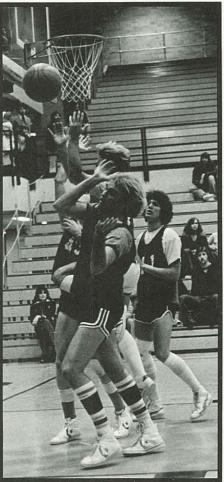

Team Sports Draw Large-Scale Involvement

In Men's Basketball, Wally's Gators won the fall league, Olympians won League I, SLA won League II, Shady Rest won the Spring League, and the Acker Tournament waa won by Barry Aberle's team. Team Four was the women's winner in basketball.

In football, Olympians won the men's part, and the team coached by Randy Schild and Doug Gill took the women's. The LSP team was the winners of men's softball, and Team number 8 won the women's division.

All-Around Athletes Honored

The path to circular pewhood is one of many pits and puddles. There are empty mailboxes that must be opened, mushy beans that must be eaten, and inhumane tests that must be taken. There are times when the cool evening breeze smells of last year's armor, and even the bravest knight wonders if it might not be convenient to make his next breath his last. But even in the face of adversity, Sir Charles could trudge onward, for he had his tuba beside him and the support of the Nampalot jab band behind him. Sir Charles began to develop self-confidence, and he overcame many of his fears (especially those of serpents, damsels, darkness, and sharp pencils). At the peak of his boldness, Charles even wore a T-shirt that said, "Tuba players have better lips."

The ASNNC Senate demonstrated its concerned interest and often its share of debate by burning a great deal of the midnight oil on many a Tuesday evening. Controversy appeared to be a determining factor in the Senate's production of many new bills. The recently created Attorney General position was probably the most important measure adopted by the 78-79 Senate. This branch of the college's student government retained its responsibilities with maturity which resulted in a productive year.

NNC's speech team had a great overall season for the year 78-79. The forensics squad competed in tournaments throughout the Northwest, consistently making a good showing. Highlights of the year included sending competition to the National Pi Kappa Delta Convention and Tournament, and developing a more extensive Reader's Theater program. Leading the squad were coaches Merilyn Thompson and Bruce Boyd.

NNC's Council for Exceptional Children is a local chapter of the international organization of the same name, which consists of 65,000 members. NNC's members are those students preparing to work with handicapped children. Their fundamental purpose is to serve these children. During the 78-79 school year the group visited the Idaho State School, observed a class using the manual system for the deaf, and had several guest speakers.

The Student National Education Association is part of the National Education Association, which is the nation's largest and most powerful professional teachers' organization. The Collegiate Ministerial Association is primarily an organization designed to cater to those students planning to enter some aspect of Christian ministry. Monthly meetings involve discussions with prominent and significant pastors, scholars, and leaders within the church. The goal of C.M.A. is to make members aware of the responsibilities contained within the Christian ministry, and to help equip those entering the field by providing practical experiences. Other activities that the C.M.A. sponsors include all-school films of theological significance, monthly preaching missions to the Boise Rescue Mission, and monthly reviews of relevant and important books on the Christian scene.

General Missionary Society, this year, has been a rare combination of new and old. The school year of 78-79 brought G.M.S. into a new decade of projects and ideas under an old, but exciting theme of servitude. In meeting the challenge of the new decade, G.M.S. has changed its name, starting in the 79-80 school year, to C.I.M. (Crusaders In Mission). This change gives school identity and assists in fulfilling the aim of G.M.S. of being an all-inclusive student organization. Another new aspect of G.M.S. is the campus prayer boxes. These are located in the chapel in the basement of Williams Hall and are available to all students.

Besides the new, G.M.S. is continuing the tradition of a Summer Project. This summer a team of 16, including Professor and Mrs. Ben Sherrill, will be going to the Puerto Rican area of New York City. Not only will they be working on church construction, but they will also have a chance to build the body of Christ by giving of themselves.

This combination of old and new has made this one of G.M.S.'s most productive and progressive years.

The purpose of Christian Workers Band is to provide students with the opportunity to gain experience in ministering to people of the community. This ministry is carried out by the puppet organization and through various student-held services at places like area rest homes, Booth Memorial Home for Unwed Mothers, the state prison, and the Idaho State School and Hospital. Through its various ministries, CWB benefits both the students of NNC, and the surrounding community.

Once again, the Northwesterners successfully completed a year of song and ministry under the direction of Dr. D.E. Hill. The group sang at many churches throughout the school year, both locally, and also toured through Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, and Colorado. At the annual Christmas concert they gave a performance of Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors". The spring concert consisted of a well-received rendition of "H.M.S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan. Completing the year, the Northwesterners made a missionary tour to Samoa and New Zealand.

Housed in the Administration Building Auditorium is the newly acquired Rodgers "Cambridge 850" electronic organ purchased in February of 1979. The longawaited instrument was purchased through the efforts of Dr. D.E. Hill, head of the music department and Connie Hensley, organ instructor for NNC. Other financing came through the route of the music department budget, private donations, and the largest grant given to NNC by the Wittenburg Foundation for one specific project in the history of the school. Noted Dr. Hill, "It's certainly a fine addition to the campus, and we're very glad to have it. It is the closest thing to a pipe organ, which we hope to have at some later date."

The answer must be, J think, that beauty and grace are performed whether or not we will or sense them. The least we can do is try to be there. —Annie Dillard

MEANING?

Leaves. Dead life splashed warm with brittle color, Congregate in random clusters on the chilly ground A sky Of pale autumn blue, Not royally deep as in summer, But with the transparent whiteness of winter approaching, Spreads itself dome-like over the plane of the earth. Early morning chill Dissipates minutely As warm shines of sun Beam through it gently, Making silence awesome And sounds crisp. Trees. Their hair ablaze with autumn's dues. Shake in anticipation of winter. Losing their broadly thin tresses on the ground. Vet. A siren wails far off, Its cry mirroring someone else's despair. An old car roars by, Spilling rancous music in the air. Meaning is confused. -Jodi Keech

MOTHER'S WEEDS

If ever my mother's weeds should die; no more lemonade, or water fights, or lazy talks, and lying on wet grass at night, after tugging on their green stems since noon.

If ever my mother's weeds should die; there wouldn't be dreams of sunny yellow daisies, or the good night's rest of the summer's bringing.

If ever my mother's weeds should die; the sun would cool, and the mosquitos would die, and the trash man would come, and the hot days drag by.

-Judi Bear

THE FLOWER PRINCESS

A princess stood within her fortress, high upon a tower, overlooking her domain; blooming like a flower.

Many suitors came to court, but each match was recanted. The princess, tired of the game, had herself transplanted.

But in this new and different land no suitors to her came; here she wasn't royalty, but just another name.

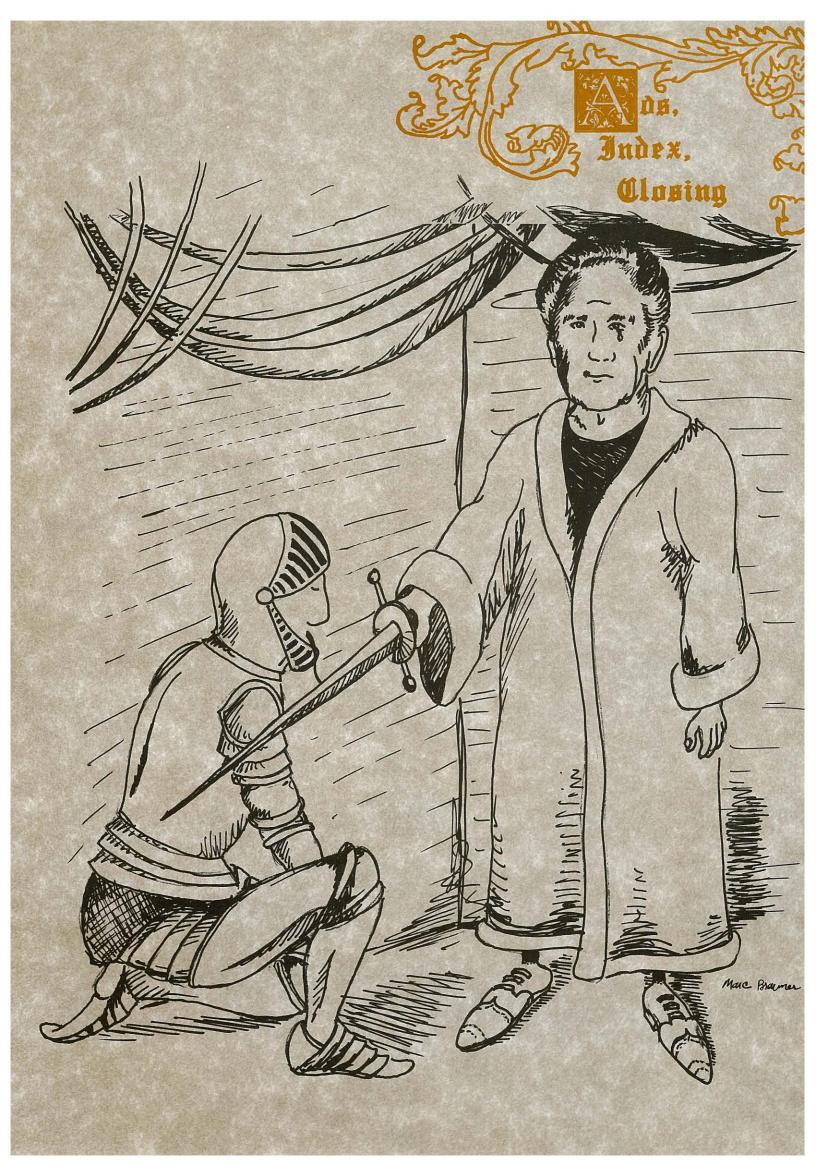

Suddenly she felt alone; the flower began to die. The heavens saw and were ashamed, and they began to cry.

It seemed to her the world was cold; it seemed that no one cared. Petal after petal dropped until her stem was bare.

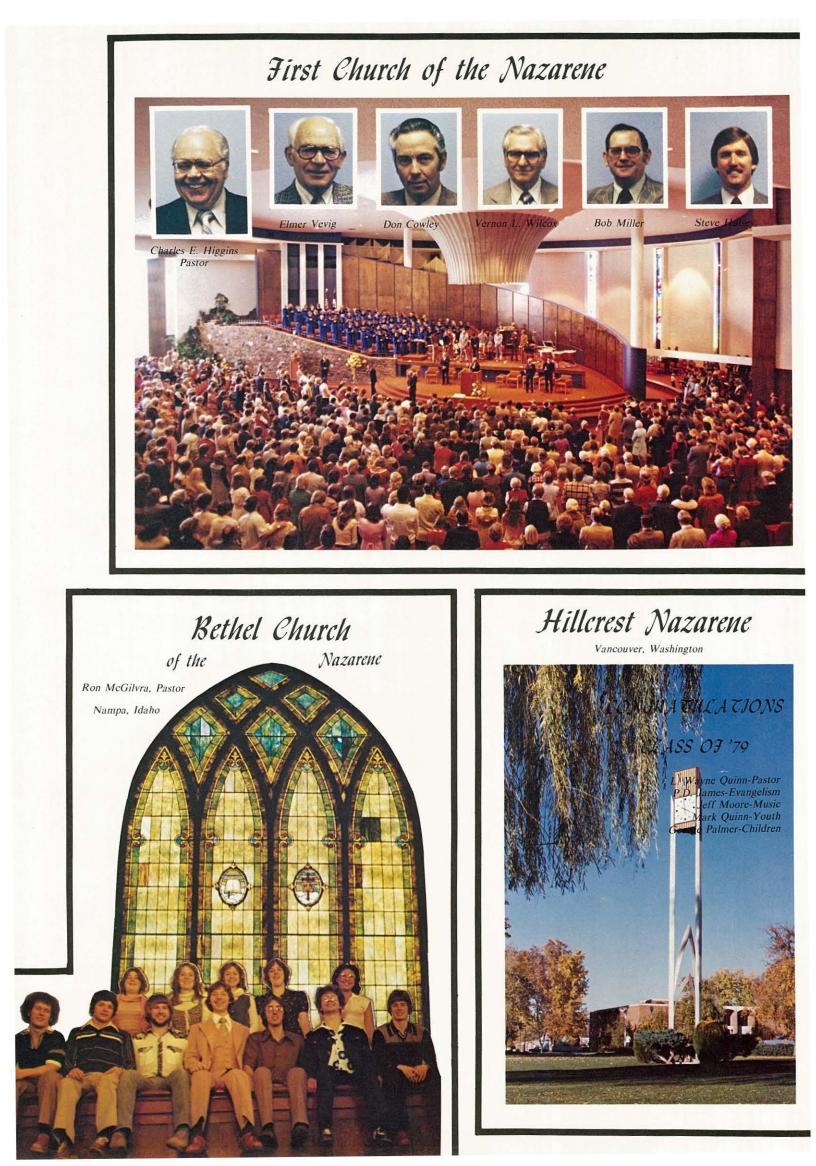

Then one day a suitor came and saw her dying form; carefully he plucked her up and sheltered her from storm.

Then the flower princess knew, this was the greatest power: He loved her for the bulb she was, not the fleeting flower.

-Stan Galloway

Being violently allergic to blood and death, Sir Charles was flunking "Giving Your Life For Your Country 404". To make matters worse, an invading barbarian had stolen the king's crown, and all of Nampalot was in an uproar. So overwhelming was his sorrow that he began playing Gregorian tuba chants rather than his regular pop-madrigals. He was about to begin his fifth round of "Death of an Infant in A Minor" when he was inspired to go before the king. "Your highness," Charles bowed, "J would like to present you with my tuba; I can think of no material more fitting for you to make a new crown from." A tear fell down the king's cheek as he accepted the precious instrument and said, "I dub thee Sir Charles, knight of the circular pew." .....
