110 Years of Legacy

For many of us, college is a time of fresh starts and new beginnings. It is a time when we are anxious to learn about ourselves and make life-long friendships. It is our very first glimpse of the real world. Little did we know coming into such a major event that we were entering into something much bigger than the four years that we would spend here.

This year's theme, "110 Years of Legacy," is one that has been jumping out at me since the very start of my freshman year. Trevecca is a school grounded in purpose and history. The cool thing about a yearbook is that it is more than a collection of pictures that we get at the start of each year. It is documenting the mark that we have made on the school during that school year. And what a big year 2010-2011 was; so much happened on campus—from renovations to new programs. Five, ten, twenty years from now people will look back on this year and remember the legacy that we left behind.

As I have tried to develop this idea of legacy, I wondered what the legacy of the Darda is. The first Darda was published in 1928 and its name is a biblical word that means "pearl of knowledge." The editor of the first Darda explained the choice of name: "not because it is a masterpiece . . . it is merely a tangible and material record of the lights and shadows of a year spent at Trevecca." That is exactly what I hope this year's Darda can be, a continuation of a legacy, a small glimpse of a chapter in a story that finds its story in a legacy that began far more than 110 years ago, actually more than 2,000 years ago.

Prologue from the President

They are all dead. The people who started Trevecca in 1901 are all dead and gone. We remember their names when we review Trevecca's history, or when we make the homecoming trek to J. O. McClurkan's grave. A few people are still around who knew the people who knew Trevecca's founders, but most of that generation is also dead.

Yet, here Trevecca is—110 years later. Not many things have outlived Trevecca. It's older than most car models, clothing styles, songs, sports franchises, restaurant chains, and modes of transportation. It's old. And still here.

Trevecca is founded on a vision which has not changed significantly during the past century plus a decade. Trevecca is still a Christian community providing education for leadership and service. Its story is a fragile one. Had God wanted to take Trevecca out of its Depression-era misery, God had plenty chances to do so. Yet it survived for another day.

It's not fiction or sheer imagination that the hand of God has rested on Trevecca Nazarene University. Its influence is felt around the world. An old motto said it well: "The sun never sets on Trevecca Nazarene College."

It would be easy to list the significant accomplishments of the past decades as evidence that Trevecca is as strong as ever. But we in the Trevecca "family" have never been a "too-proud" people, always tending to underestimate our strength while relying on God. May we always remember that our stability and strength are not rooted in our own doing, but in the activity of God. As long as we are doing God's work in the world, we will have a reason to exist.

Trevecca's story and the aspirations of its alumni are best told in the Trevecca Hymn. I still sing it with gratitude to God. I hope as you browse this yearbook, you will hear the glad refrain.

Dan Boone

Trevecca Hymn

From the halls of old Trevecca, We go forth to serve our King;
In our chosen fields of labor, We her praises gladly sing.
To her high and noble standards, We shall never cease to hold,
Knowing that her God will bless us, With His riches yet untold.

Now her halls of higher learning, Seem a holy sacred shrine;
With her history rich and glorious and her scope and aim divine.
Marching forward with her blessing; Friendships, memories lasting yet;
We shall keep her spirit with us, Nor shall we her truth forget.

God who set thy hand upon her, Who has long supplied her need,
Wilt thou keep our Alma Mater thine in service as in creed.
Give her guidance; give her wisdom; From thee never let her roam;
All the way to heaven's portals, Bring her sons and daughters home.

—Lyrics by Howard T. Wall, Jr., Class of 1947

Dedication

Norm Robinson

The 2011 Darda is dedicated to Norm Robinson, Trevecca's director of campus security since 1997, in recognition of his legacy of grace-giving in his role as protector of Trevecca and its students.

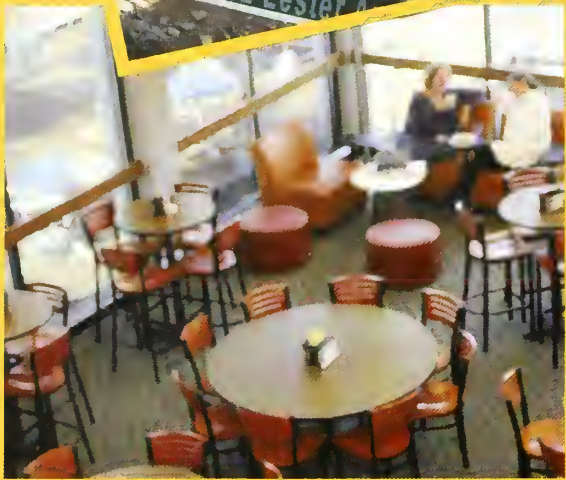

Marine, policeman, college student, director of security, husband, father, grandfather—Norm Robinson brings wide experience to his work as director of campus security. He served in the U. S. Marines (1968-1972) at the rank of sergeant and completed a thirteen-month tour in Vietnam. He was an officer in the Metro-Nashville Police Department for thirteen years. He entered Trevecca in 1991 as a full-time undergraduate student and worked for the security department at night; he graduated in 1996 with a degree in pastoral ministry and was part of the first graduating class of Trevecca Nazarene University. The next year the University asked him to become director of campus security.

“When I decided twenty years ago to come to Trevecca as a student, I never intended to stay, and I wrestled with God about the offer to stay and work here. After much prayer, I felt led to accept the position I now have at Trevecca. I’ve never regretted that decision. It’s been twenty exciting years. I am humbled by this honor,” said Norm. He and his wife, Sheila, married in 1971; they have two children—Brian and Karen—and four grandchildren.

Adding to the Legacy

The campus of Trevecca changes again

- In early 2011 the new Alumni Center was completed, giving the campus a new welcome center for guests and providing new office space.
- The Adams Administration Building was renovated, resulting in new offices for the Offices of Graduate Psychology and Academic Affairs and new classroom spaces for Graduate Psychology.
- The lecture hall in Greathouse Science Building was reconfigured with new desks and laptop connections.
- Tidwell Faculty Center received new paint and carpet, new furnishings, and updated electrical work.
- Apple Dining Room in the Jernigan Student Center was reconfigured: smaller tables, booths, a new composting system for refuse, a rotisserie oven, a "Subway-style" sandwich bar, and additional outside seating and heaters.
- The bathrooms in Benson Hall were completely redone, outdoor ramps were resurfaced and given new railings, new outdoor lighting was added, and the sidewalk was replaced.
- Windows in Georgia, Tennessee, and Johnson Halls were replaced with windows which matched those in newer campus buildings.
- The Trevecca Print Shop moved to 80 Nance Lane; its former facility was renovated for use by the External Relations marketing team.
- A new fence and storm drainage system was added to the baseball field, and the walking track was repaved.
- The façade of the Boone Business Building was replaced, the sidewalk in front of that building was stained, and a new sound system was installed in the convocation center.

As students returned this fall, they were greeted with a completely new cafeteria.

The security building was demolished in order to make room for the new Alumni Center at the front of campus

Welcome Week

An old tradition with some new twists

After coming to Trevecca at the beginning of the school year, after getting all settled in and shaking hands with one's new roommate, students are invited to be part of this wonderful thing called Welcome Week. Freshmen and upperclassmen have five evenings to mingle before they must buckle down to the semester ahead.

Welcome Week provides a fun way for newcomers to slowly edge out of their comfort zones one inch at a time or to jump out of them completely and into the exciting chaos that is Trevecca. Welcome Week 2010 included a dodge ball tournament, Celebrity Skate Night, and even paint wars! When the students headed back to their dorms after paint wars, they looked like tie-dye jobs gone horribly wrong, but they had fun in the process. Another big event is the concert held on the last night of Welcome Week. This year's concert featured Shirock and Paper Route along with a few of Trevecca's own musicians.

Everyone who attends Welcome Week activities discovers a favorite part. "I thought it was great! Paint wars was my favorite because there were lots of creative aspects to the event, not just a big paint fight. Mr. Waters and his team did an awesome job," said Katelyn Hays.

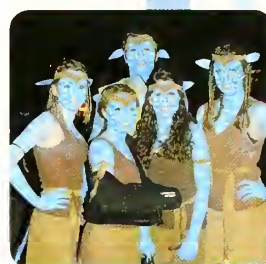

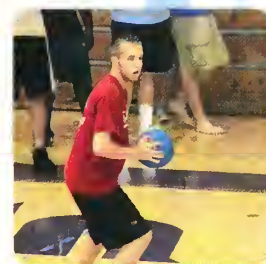

The creators of Welcome Week 2011 will have to really step it up to compete with 2010!

Dressing as Juno and Pauly Bleaker from the movie Juno, Kelsey Holland and Chadd Lin triumph their win in the couples' contest.

Enjoying the Paint-a-Palooza, President Boone and wife Denise could not avoid getting covered in paint with the students.

Holding hands, Kirstie Hembruff, Sarah Becknal, Emy Smith, and Bailey Bussell show off their skills at Celebrity Skate Night.

What does it mean to be a leader? What is a favorite LEAP Group memory? What is your #1 strength?

"The greatest influence comes through relationships. Leadership is most effective through establishing and maintaining relationships."
Tom Middendorf
Assoc. Dir, CICS

"In so many ways this year we've been able to go on adventures—through backpacking and experiential learning and service projects—but the best adventure has truly been connecting on a deeper level with one another."
Kayleigh Hofer
Faculty Mentor

"I don't have a LEAP class this year, but I will never forget the people with whom I made relationships in the life, Calling, and Purpose Class."
Teresa Paul
Administrative Mentor

"My number one strength is woo, but I am a different kind of woo because I am in the middle of being an introvert and extrovert."
Kaylee Harrell
Peer Mentor

"I have learned that being a leader is more than being able to boss people around. It's about taking time to get to know people and their strengths so you can place them in a position where they can be most successful."
JJ Wyzinski
Freshman

Life Calling and Purpose

Third time's a charm!

Making the LEAP from high school to college can be a daunting task, but freshmen have a Life Calling and Purpose class (LEAP) to help make the transition easier. In the third year of this program, LEAP groups of freshmen are led by a peer mentor and a group leader, and the LEAP sessions help freshmen find their places in this world, how to prioritize their time and energy, how to avoid overextending themselves, and how to look beyond the surface of who they are.

"I like the fact that you get placed with people that you wouldn't normally hang out with; being placed this way causes you to form relationships with them and have a better variety of friends" said Brittany Smith.

This year the LEAP Program offered a new pilot course called the Adventure Group, composed of students selected by the admission counselors. Tom Middendorf was in charge of this project and was pleased. "The first year has gone well! We are tentatively looking at launching a total of three of these Adventure groups for next year. There are a lot of logistics that go into making this a safe and successful experience." said Tom. These students studied what it means to be a leader. They went on a three-day backpacking trip to Savage Gulf, learning more about their strengths and weaknesses, and also how to work together as a team.

Which group was your favorite? Was there an individual musician you most enjoyed seeing perform?

“Cadillac sky! They are a great group and I loved watching them perform!”
Casey Kania

“Oh man, I loved Cadillac Sky. Of course I loved the guitarist, but I also thought the fiddle player was really great. I loved his style of playing.”
Cody Garrow

Cadillac Sky

Concert in the Quad with The Vespers and Flea Marketeers

Some of the best things about living in Nashville, where one can “throw a rock and kill two musicians,” are the concerts students have the opportunity to attend. Some of those concerts take place on Trevecca’s campus.

In the fall Trevecca hosted Cadillac Sky with the Vespers, also with the Flea Marketeers performing a pre-show. Cadillac Sky, an “influenced bluegrass” group, has a little bit of rock and pop peppered into their sound. They play a variety of instruments including banjo, guitar, fiddle, and violin. The Vespers, on the other hand, are a pair of siblings who sing folk music. They too play a variety of instruments with that southern feel.

Students praised the concert. “I like the family feel that you get from the band,” says Ashley Hoffner. Living in Music City always brings new adventures, and the fall concert gave students high expectations for future concerts.

Camp Out in the Quad

Basketball games at Trevecca are always highlights, and it doesn't take much for fans to get excited about the games. One of the traditions about the start of the basketball season is Camp Harrisville, a night for fans to get together and prep for the coming games.

On November 12, the night before the Trevecca vs. University of Cumberland game, students honored that tradition, with a visit to Camp Harrisville (actually an area outside Moore Gym). They cooked hamburgers and hot dogs on a grill, made s'mores, and sat around fires, talking and visiting as if they never had time to talk to each other. Fifty Trevecca fans came to support the basketball teams and fellowship with each other. A few ended up spending the night in the tents set up in the Quad. The next morning the SGA director of student services, Preston Hunt, made breakfast for those who stayed for the night. An old tradition was reignited for new students!

'Campout in the Quad brought random groups of people together who all enjoyed each other's company.'

Homecoming

banquet and coronation

Trevecca's Homecoming tradition began in 1964 with the crowning of the Homecoming queen. The first king was crowned in 1995. Homecoming Coronation is a student tradition. This year the reigning king and queen, Andrew Hall and Laura Vinson, returned to hand their crowns to a new generation. The freshmen were represented by Matthew Ray and Chelsea Hudson. The sophomore representatives were Katelyn Hayes and Drew Lewis. Daniel Smith and Dana Franchetti were nominated for junior representatives, and the senior representative were the following: Mallory Carden, Lauren Boyer, Emily Rowden, Benji Bussell, Michael Hare, and Andrew Silvas.

Emily Rowden and Benji Bussell were the Homecoming 2010 king and queen. Rowden described her reaction to this honor: "I immediately sent three people to the scaffolds upon finding out that I won Homecoming queen. But I'm no Marie Antoinette—I also kissed babies and knighted the deserving. All in all, it was a great weekend!"

The new tradition will continue next year when this year's royal couple returns to pass on their crowns.

Homecoming

Parade & Trojan Madness

Among the most anticipated events of the year, Homecoming is certainly at the top. Students enjoy the weekend of activities, but they also appreciate that marvelous feeling that comes from having the Trevecca family from past decades back on the hill. The goal of Homecoming events is to provide alumni with activities that will leave them feeling proud of the school and all that has been achieved here.

The Office of Alumni Relations is in charge of planning and executing this huge weekend, a job which can be quite a daunting task. The line-up of events included Founder's Day Chapel; a banquet; the crowning of the Homecoming court; a parade; an outdoor festival and dinner under a tent; a light show created by Trevecca alumni; more than 22 reunions; a concert by current students, Trevecca alumni, and University groups; basketball games; and a student-led visit to the grave of Trevecca's founder, J. O. McClurkan.

Representing part of the senior Homecoming court, Michael Hare and Mallory Carden wave to the basketball fans.

Dunking the basketball, Coloton Booher helps Trevecca students and alumni to get into their school spirit during Trojan Madness.

Marching in the 2010 Trevecca Homecoming Parade, members of the women's apartments represent the '50s in their "Once Upon a Time" theme.

"I absolutely loved Trojan Idol; it was a blast. I learned how much people need each other. It would have been a totally different experience and I never would have gotten so far without the support and encouragement of friends and family, even down to the people who let me borrow clothes or shoes!"

Andrea Corzine

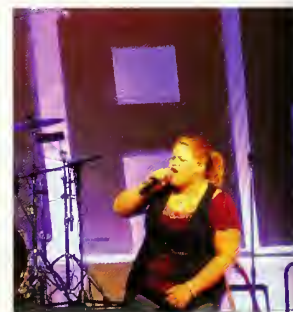

Trojan Idol

In 2010 Trevecca students presented Trojan Idol for the seventh year. The event is an opportunity for Trevecca's students to showcase their musical talent, and it is one of the campus's biggest events of the year with 450 students in the audience on the first night.

The guest judges were Trevecca alumnus Jake Hagood, musical veteran Phil Waters, and Trevecca professor Jeff Cox. On the second night the band The Vespers, who played a concert on campus in the fall, served as guest judges for the event.

The performers for the night included the following: Andrea Corzine, Hamil Rich, JP Sheppard, Emy Smith, Stefanie Wienecke, TJ Adams, Lauren Boyer, Rachel Jeanete, Carlie Moore, and Elise Sirois. At the end of the first night, students' ballot votes had narrowed down the group to the top five competitors: Andrea Corzine, Hamil Rich, JP Sheppard, Emy Smith, and Stefanie Wienecke. On the second night contestants were narrowed down to two – Andrea Corzine and Hamil Rich.

Andrea took the title of Trojan Idol and the $400 dollar prize with her renditions of "L-O-V-E," Paramore's "Hallelujah," and Faith Hill's "This Kiss."

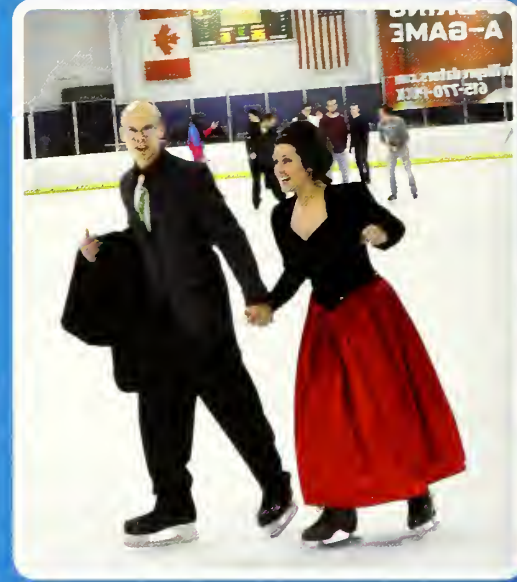

Andrea Corzine, this year's winner, sang "L-O-V-E" by Nat King Cole, "Hallelujah" by Paramore, and "This Kiss" by Faith Hill

Stefanie Wienecke, the only senior to make it into the top five, sang "Oh, Darling" by the Beatles and "Battlefield" by Jordan Sparks.

The top ten contestants for this year's Trojan Idol were Hamil Rich, Andrea Corzine, Emy Smith, TJ Adams, Carlie Moore, Lauren Boyer, Rachel Ott, Elise Sirous, Stefanie Wienecke, and JP Shephard.

Welcome Back

Back to continue the legacy in 2011

Welcome Back Week begins every spring semester and is intended to excite students about the a new semester and help the new incoming students become connected on campus. This year included some of the old favorites—All-School Praise and Worship and Thrift Store Prom Night. Prom Night is really an evening at a skating rink with participants dressed in thrift-store finery. Two events were designed to get the students excited for a new semester of Trojan athletics. Purple Pandemonium, held during the first home basketball game of the semester, is an opportunity for students to get together before the game, paint themselves purple, eat pizza, make posters for the game, and raise excitement for the games. Students also had a tailgate party at Trevecca’s game with Cumberland University and then supported the basketball teams in those games by bringing the Moore Maniacs to the games.

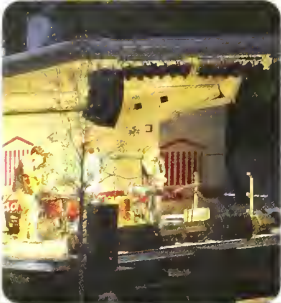

Leading the school in worship, Bailey Bussell helps the campus to start out on a positive spiritual note at All-School Praise and Worship.

Painting posters for Purple Pandemonium, Jim Waters is pumped up for the basketball games to follow and shows his school spirit.

Practicing their ice skating with the bars, Brian Johnson, Jeff Byler, and Michael Stocks prepare to not embarrass themselves on the ice rink in their Thrift Store Prom outfits.

Trevecca had some of its very own musicians playing at Booneroo this year, including Nick Huddelston and Ted Gajda.

Former Trevecca student Jake Hagood inspired many with his lyrics.

"This event was awesome! Can't wait 'til next year!"
- Betsy Harris

Boonearoo

On Saturday April 30, 2011, students enjoyed a day of music and art at an event named Boonearoo, a play-on-words name that combined the name of a popular Tennessee music festival (Bonnaroo) with the name of Trevecca's beloved President Boone.

The purpose of Boonearoo was to provide an end-of-the-year activity for students to enjoy while preparing for finals, in other words a big send off. Boonearoo was unique because it allowed Trevecca musicians an opportunity to share the stage with national recording acts like pioneering hip-hop group GRITS. The festival featured pop, country, bluegrass, folk, rock, and rap music- all on the same stage. This year's line up was The Troy Mangrum Band, Dan Moranville, Emmy Smith & Hamil Rich, Jake Hagood, The Howling Brothers, Sleepy Eyed Fox, Skyhook, Nick Riley, and GRITS.

In addition to the music on stage, Boonearoo also included an artisan festival. Many student craftsmen and local artists set up booths, allowing attendees to purchase homemade items from purses and candles to lemonade. The artisans added a nice feature to the event and a great opportunity for our students to show off their talents.

With a lot of work from a lot of people, Boonearoo 2011 was a success. Approximately 500 attended, and the students' response was nothing but positive. There is much anticipation for Boonearoo 2!

Rebeckah Dunn, Jackie Winkle, Vera Pendergraft, and Riley Wampler argue over the best reality TV shows. Riley loses.

Jesse Paige, Lauren Rutherford, and TJ Adams find support for their unrealistic views of MTV.

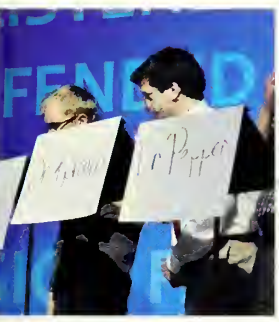

The final dance number is always a highlight of FNL. This year's host, Tim Green, gets his groove on like the best of them.

Friday Night Live

Live from Trevecca, It's Friday night!

One can rarely find a line of students waiting to enter Benson Auditorium; however, Friday Night Live (known as FNL) draws a large crowd every spring. Students welcome the break in their studying to indulge in belly-aching laughs caused by a wonderful cast of their fellow students. Jim Waters, SGA's new director of social life, coordinated this year's event.

A special treat was in store for students at the 2011 edition of FNL with a new host—Chaplain Tim Green. During his opening, Green shared a highly sought-after video of himself last summer. Other skits ranged from an MTV-addicts' group, to My Life is Trevecca, and to the Lesser Miracles of Jesus. The high point was when Riley Wampler and Brian Johnson took their places behind the Weekend Update desk and delivered one straight-faced joke after another, bringing audience members to their knees. With the sound of past, present, and future ovations ringing in their ears, it is no wonder that those who orchestrate the night make such an effort every year to entertain Trevecca's students.

The best part of a masquerade is when the masks are dropped

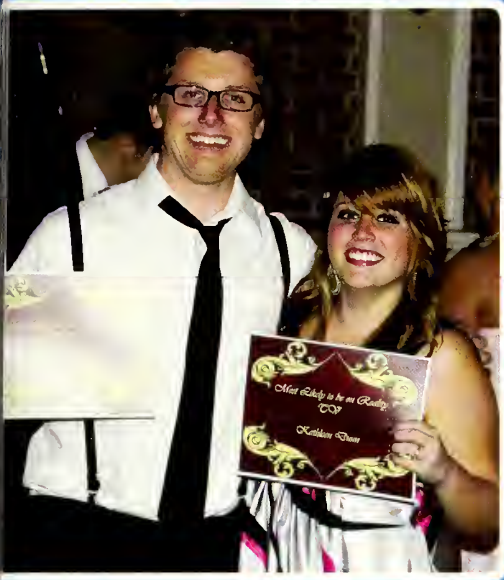

There comes a special time in the upperclassmen's year when they get to dress up and attend a banquet. This 2011 Junior-Senior Banquet was a masquerade ball. The masks came off at Brentwood Country Club, where everyone enjoyed a delicious dinner. The evening included a photo booth with a slightly different twist, and a caricature artist provided graphic reminders of the evening. Senior superlatives were announced near the end of the evening. Members of the junior class made every effort to ensure that they gave graduating seniors an exciting "send off."

Vera Pendergraft, junior class president said "I was really excited about the event; the class put a ton of time into it because we wanted to give the seniors an event that they can really enjoy." Juniors and seniors had the opportunity to put their "paper faces on parade" in this fun-filled night.

Youth In Mission

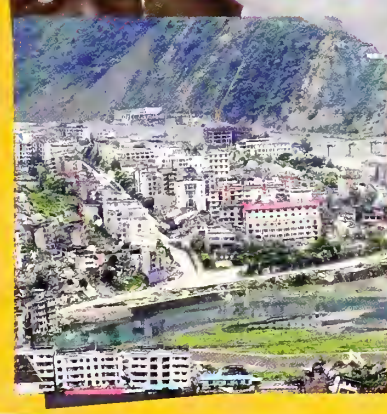

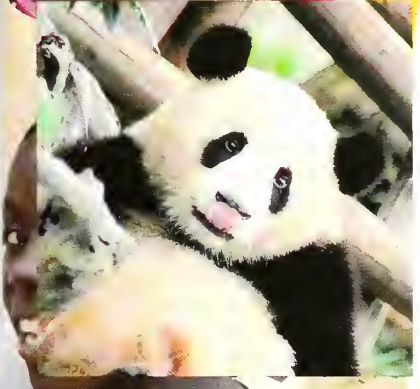

Youth in Mission sends college students all over the world to spend a summer in service.

Jotham Miller spent his summer in China doing medical missions. Sadie Wood spent her summer in Africa doing friendship evangelism.

For many years, Trevecca has encouraged its students to become engaged with others, and Youth in Mission (YIM) is one way for students to acquire hands-on experience in foreign countries. In the summer of 2010, five students spent two months in China and Liberia through YIM.

Jotham Miller and Monica Diehl joined three other Nazarene university students in China's Sichuan Province. A condition of their being in China was that they would not talk openly about others with their faith, so these five took classes in Mandarin to build relationship with Chinese students in the community and operated a weekend clinic in the area where the devastating earthquake took place in April 2010. Jotham says that his experience was incredible: "It was amazing because I was able to do something I'm so passionate about; I was able to do basic vitals such as blood

“YIM was a challenging experience for me, but at the same time it was a learning experience for me to realize who I am and acknowledge the world around me.” Devon Eby pressure, pulse, height, weight, and body mass index for 100 people.”

In Liberia, Devon Eby and Sadie Wood held twenty vacation Bible school programs, participated in showings of the Jesus film, and helped with the Church of the Nazarene’s GOL 2010 evangelism effort which uses soccer as a way to connect with young people. They say that the relationships they made there made such an impact on them. Sadie reflected, “I think about Liberia probably during every meal I have. Meals bring up really hilarious moments that we had—trying spicy and questionable foods and learning how to cook with coal. On the contrary, sometimes having meals makes me think about how I have friends in Liberia who are suffering pretty badly. One of my favorite authors, Shauna Niequist, says that once you see something, you can’t un-see it. What happened this summer will never leave me.”

The Liberia team included Sadie Wood and Devon Eby.

“Going to Peru was an amazing experience, God shined his light upon the people I came in contact with, and my spiritual walk has grown so much because of my experience there!” Tricia Langley

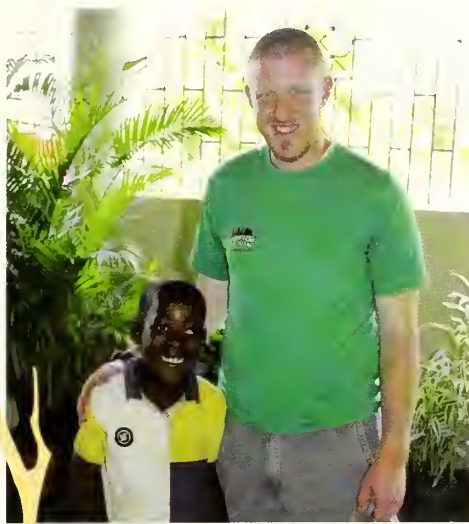

Summer TAG

Trevecca is always looking for ways to expand its horizons. Trevecca Around the Globe, or TAG, has many different trips for students to participate in, and those in charge are always searching for places where students can be sent.

This past summer two teams of Trevecca students were sent to South America, one to Peru and one to Nicaragua. The team in Peru filled every second of their time there evangelizing and exploring the beautiful country. They held a soccer tournament with twenty teams competing, and TAG members shared their testimonies. They helped with a women’s conference, where sixty women accepted Christ. They visited a women’s jail and planted trees in a Nazarene community that Trevecca has adopted. The group planned a children’s festival which was held during showing of the Jesus film. One night more than 10,000 people attended the showing and more than 5,000 asked Christ into their lives. A celebration service was held that Sunday to thank God for all that had He had blessed them with.

The Nicaragua team spent a majority of their time at an elementary school in El Almendro. They met the district superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene in that area; he is planting a Church of the Nazarene. They also met the missionary to Costa Rica, Nicaragua, and Panama. At the elementary school, they worked on the roof and installed a water line, so the students could have running water. They also held a few VBS programs and showings of the Jesus film.

Emily Eaton, part of the Nicaragua team, summed up her experiences: “What impressed me the most is the generosity and kindness of the Nicaraguan people. Orlando Cisneros, the district superintendent, and his family were “buena gente” (Spanish for “wonderful people”), and they were so loving, giving and kind. The children were amazing as well; they loved to be around us and talk to us, which was a little difficult at times with the language barrier, but nonetheless super rewarding.”

Spring TAG

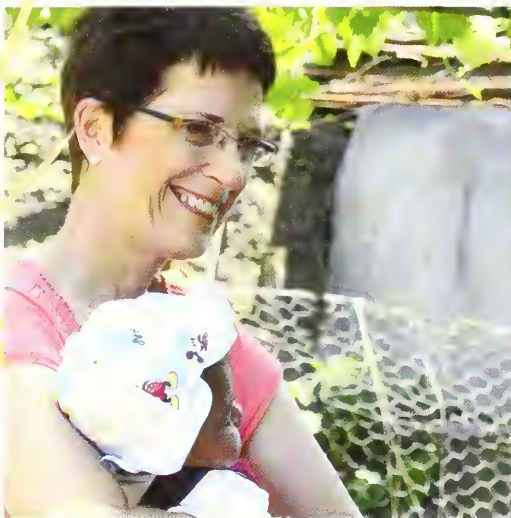

Each year members of the Trevecca community participate in mission trips locally and globally through the Trevecca Around the Globe (TAG) Program. This year there were four trips. The fall break trip, October 8-12, took participants to the John M. Perkins Foundation for Reconciliation and Development in Jackson, Mississippi. This team ministered to families through home repairs, urban gardening, and landscaping. They listened to a founder of the Christian Community Development Movement and dialogued about reconciliation, social justice, and issues facing America's cities.

Participants on the spring break trip, March 5-13, worked at the Dr. Paul Gamertsfelder Mission Centre in Frome, Jamaica. This team assisted in the construction of a multifunctional clinic which will provide health care for impoverished families. They also participated in creative outreach and beach ministry to and with Jamaicans of all ages.

The team on the summer break trip, May 8-23, ministered at the Michael Job Center for Orphaned Girls in Coimbatore, India. They served more than five hundred orphaned girls (daughters of martyred and persecuted Christians from all over Asia) through VBS and relational ministry. The team also traveled to other ministry centers in Southern India and served in a variety of ways.

A second summer break team went Arequipa, Peru, May 11-25. This team worked with Extreme Nazarene Ministries to help missionaries plant churches in communities where the gospel is absent or underserved. They accomplished this work through daily compassionate outreach and discipleship.

Learning about social justice abroad : Eastern Europe

"I am so grateful for the trip to Eastern Europe because it provided me with a great cross-cultural experience to serve as a background to a future in missions. It was a unique and very personal insight into the Kingdom of God abroad."
-Graham Scott

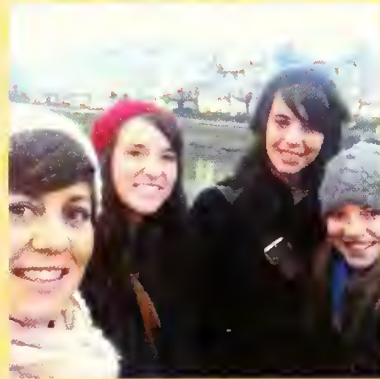

It isn't very often that students get to take the difficult lessons they learn in class and apply that learning in the real world; however, in the summer of 2010 a group of students, led by professors Tim Green and Kathy Mowry, were able to travel to one of the oldest part of the world and learn about its history in relation to their faith and their calling.

The Eastern European trip was specifically offered to students in the social justice department at Trevecca, but participation was open to all students. The group met with the Sunbergs, a missionary family stationed in Eastern Europe. Then the group traveled through Romania and Bulgaria, learning about the social injustices that people living there face daily. They saw children who live in the streets of Bulgaria because of poverty. They visited a village where the local pastor visits the homes of families with daughters and talks to the parents about the advantages of not selling their girls.

These experiences had such an impact on the students and teachers that they returned home to form mission teams which will live in different areas of Romania, Bulgaria, and Albania in the summer of 2011. Their positive response to the difficult lessons that they learned on their mission trip illustrates the way that members of the Trevecca community confront the harsh realities of the world—by doing everything they can to work against the suffering.

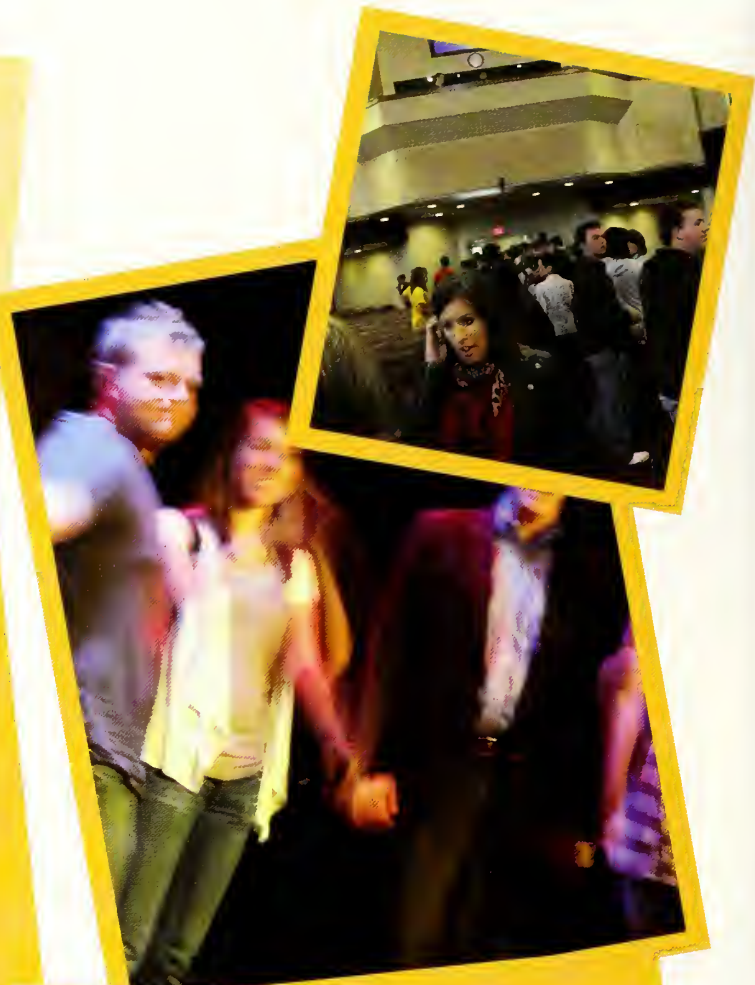

Croatia

For several years many Trevecca students have participated in mission trips through Trevecca Around the Globe (TAG) and Youth in Mission. In 2010 Trevecca students began a new kind of mission experience through Submerge, a mission program that enables students to become so interwoven with their new communities that they are inseparable from those around them.

Trevecca partnered with 365m, a master's program at Nazarene Theological Seminary, to send a team of five Trevecca alumni to Zagreb, Croatia: Michael Hendricks, Jerry Romasco, Brittany Argabright, Hope Brock, and Emily Humble. They were informed of the opportunity in 2009, when most were preparing to graduate and figuring out what to do with their futures. After deciding to serve a year in Croatia, their major obstacle was raising the $100,000 needed for their support during the coming year. The Trevecca community, friends, and family rallied, and the funding was collected. They left their home on September 1 and arrived without any complications. They will return home in August 2011.

A new, smaller team will take their places. Stephanie Sherwood and Ben Ponder have decided to take the leap and will leave for Croatia in October of 2011. They have been in contact with the current team and feel secure about leading the Croatia effort. Even though there are only two of them, they are very excited about what God has in store for them, and they feel reassured because their predecessors have paved the way for them. Stephanie stated, "In short, I am beyond excited to see what God has in store for me, and I look forward to meeting new people, learning new things, and growing deeper in my relationship God."

"Chapel, although often a subject of complaint, is absolutely vital to the heartbeat of Trevecca. Chapel is a large part of what holds this school together in Christ." Benji Bussell, Student Body Chaplain

When you read the word chapel, what do you think about? Chapel at Trevecca is a fundamental part of who the University is. It helps the University accomplish its mission to be a Christian community. It also prepares us to minister to those around us. The way chapel is set up allows us the freedom to choose what kind of chapel to attend and the flexibility to work around our schedules.

Most of the time, the worship in chapel is student-led. Marvin Jones, the worship pastor at Trevecca Community Church of the Nazarene, and Heather Daugherty, the director of the Worship Arts Program, select students to lead through a try-out process. Tim Green, University chaplain, speaks quite often during chapel, but sometimes we have a guest speaker. The 2010 guest speakers have included Luis Quinonez, Bo Cassell and Philip Rodebush, each bringing a different background and a unique story to spice up our time together.

Chapel

Point of Grace has sung in chapel two consecutive years.

Brent Tallman, director of campus spiritual formation, explained what Chapel means to him: "I love that we come together as a community during these times. We all are going in so many different directions, I'm glad that we make time as a 'family' to worship God together."

Worshipping together sets the mood for the message that the speaker will bring. And even though it may take a while to get out of there, we walk away knowing we have spent time in the presence of God.

Trevecca goes green

Students and faculty work to help Trevecca "go green" by planting various fruit trees around campus!

In March the freshman class teamed up with Jason Adkins, faculty member of the J. V. Morsch Center for Social Justice, to plant trees and shrubbery on Trevecca's campus. Twenty students and faculty showed up to get their hands dirt for the day. They met at the on-campus greenhouse where they learned how to properly plant and fertilize the vegetation. Then they headed to the commuter lot, where they began to plant along the hill.

hat leads to Plant-Ops. After three fruitful hours, they called it a day and went back to the greenhouse to put up their supplies and take a group picture, their reminder of the day. Though those trees and shrubs looked small in the spring of 2011, the labor of those students and faculty will add beauty to Trevecca's campus for years to come—their own "green legacy" for others to enjoy.

“The service project demonstrated to me first-hand the community aspect of life at Trevecca. It allowed me to work with my classmates and invest energy into the Nashville Community close to campus.” Dillon Jones
Freshman Class Chaplain

Fall Service Project

This year’s all-school service project was conducted in Chestnut Hill, the area of Nashville behind the campus. Students who participated in the effort prepared an apartment building for a complete renovation that will take place later and planted an urban garden for residents of that area. This day allowed students to give back to the community adjacent to the campus.

This project was suggested by Jason Adkins, instructor in the Social Work Program. Adkins is working to create an “intentional community” in Chestnut Hill. This community will include affordable housing opportunities, and the renovation of this apartment complex is the first step in that plan.

Daniel Smith, Chaplain for the junior class, explained what participating in this project meant to him: “As I took a short break, I looked around and saw a few students building a green house, some throwing away rotten insulation, some mending a wound on the new professor’s leg (Mike Jackson), others waving to and playing with a toddler who lived across the street, and another handing out water bottles to those who looked the most tired. I thought to myself, I am witnessing the Kingdom at work here.”

Campus Ministries

As a Christian school, Trevecca is able to provide many different ways for students to reach out into their community and minister. This year Trevecca's participation in Room in the Inn was a huge success. Every Wednesday guys from Trevecca picked up men from the Room in the Inn campus and brought them to TSAC, where students prepared supper and beds for them. SGA chaplain Benji Bussell explained what serving these men meant to the students: "It was a great time to fellowship with them, talk, laugh, and learn from their experiences to understand better how we can help by becoming better neighbors to them."

Students also helped removate an apartment building in the Chesnut Hill area. The apartment building project, a dream of Jason Adkins, became a tangible way for Trevecca to become a presence in the neighborhood.

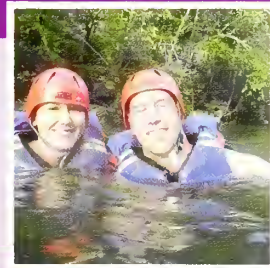

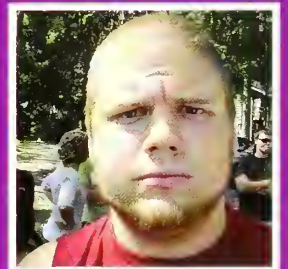

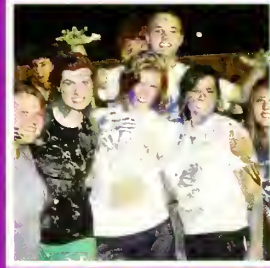

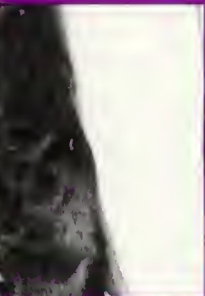

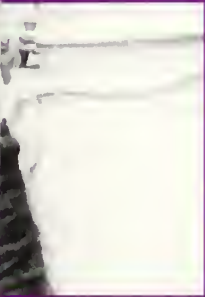

The launch of the environmental justice academic tract has helped all of Trevecca become more environmentally aware. A tree planting was held on the grounds as a way for students to become more environmentally conscious. Trevecca has been blessed with abundant and creative ways to serve its campus and community.

People

Cody Ballard

Major: Mathematics and physics

Hometown: Madison, Tennessee

Activities/Positions at TNU: Soccer and research in the physics labs

Future Plans: Pursue graduate studies in physics at the University of Maryland College Park.

Favorite TNU Memory: I would definitely have to say one of my favorites was during junior year. My friends and I got caught playing on the jungle gym at the zoo during the junior senior banquet. Apparently that was not allowed.

Lyle Blanco

Major: I am checking out of Trevecca with a degree in business administration, a concentration in management, and a minor in youth ministry

Hometown: Bradenton, Florida

Activities/Positions at TNU: I was president of the Environmental Sustainability Association; I was on Junior Class Council as a rep when TNU had those; I served as ASB director of Student Services; I was a part of Tennessee Valley Authority Investment Challenge; when King's Kids was around I did that.

Future Plans: I plan on staying in Nashville and living life! I want to pursue a career in healthcare management. I think healthcare is an industry which could use a virtuous and honest person such as myself. Maybe I'll get a master's.

Favorite TNU Memory: I am gonna have to go with the one time my two roommates and I (Trevor Ford and Jared Mills) were probably hyped up on some form of sugar and decided we would grab hand towels out of the kitchen and pop each other. For about forty-five minutes we ran, jumped, ducked, and attacked each other. By the end of the battle, we couldn't stop laughing and couldn't breathe really. Its more of a work out than we intended it to be.

Lauren Boyer

Major: Psychology

Hometown: Franklin, Tennessee

Activities/Positions at TNU: I was junior class chaplain last year, and on Trevechoes for two years (staff writer for one, how-to girl for another, contributor this year). I was in choir freshman year. I was in the play Oklahoma freshman year too.

Future Plans: Going to Bulgaria for the summer, then coming home to save money to eventually go back overseas.

Favorite TNU Memory: Rolling off the top bunk onto the bottom bunk for fun, running from Penelope the raccoon, singing off-key, sledding down the road by Benson, speed dating and many more.

Benji Bussell

Major: Religion, missions

Hometown: Lakeland, Florida

Activities/Positions at TNU: Men's soccer team and SGA chaplain

Future Plans: I will be the graduate assistant for the men's soccer team and earn a degree in graduate psychology.

Favorite TNU Memory: Scoring the game-winning goal at home in overtime against our rivals, Cumberland; it was pretty awesome.

Andrea Corzine

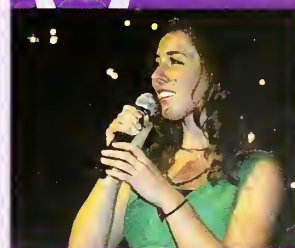

Major: Worship arts and songwriting

Hometown: Plant City, Florida

Activities/Positions at TNU: Music leader of music ministry team, Refuge; a Chapel worship leader; Songwriter's Challenge; Benson Brew; Songwriter's Nights; Trojan Idol; Choral Union; part-time job in the Caf; All School Praise and Worship; help lead worship at a recovery ministry service at TCC

Future Plans: I would like to work in a church, building up a worship ministry and leading a congregation in worship regularly. I also love to write songs, both worship and secular. I would really like to be able to give my worship songs to the church as a whole to be used by anyone who would find them meaningful.

Favorite TNU Memory: There are so many! One would definitely be the Jon Foreman concert my freshman year. Trojan Idol is probably another one, and there have been lots of fun times hanging out around campus with friends.

Who's Who

Austin Johnson

Major: Communication

Hometown: Nashville, Tennessee

Activities/Positions at TNU: Writing for FNL, skipping chapel.

Future Plans: Writing for television.

Favorite TNU Memory: Meeting my wife, Esther, and the birth of our firstborn, Yusuf.

Kayla McMahon

Major: Special education

Hometown: Millbrook, Alabama

Activities/Positions at TNU: Peer mentor, RHA chaplain, summer ministry teams

Future Plans: (Don't you love how stereotypical this is?) Marrying my best friend in June and figuring out life as we go!

Favorite TNU Memory: I don't think there is ONE favorite memory to list...Seussical; rock climbing; road tripping to Georgia or to Florida with friends; summer camps with Todd, Lauren, and the rest; or any of the great campus events each year. But what I'll most take away are the friendships forged here. During my freshman year, a group of girls on my hall met together almost every night to share what was going on in our lives. Most of the time we would spend our time laughing together at the changes happening for each of us. We don't get to meet as often as we used to, but I have my very best friends because of that freshman year!

Tamra Reaves

Major: English education

Hometown: Valley, Alabama

Activities/Positions at TNU: Merge and STEA

Future Plans: Teach junior high and high school English

Favorite TNU Memory: My best friends and I dressed up like the Winnie the Pooh gang for Celebrity Skate Night! We used duct tape for Tigger's stripes (let's just say duct tape does not stretch like sweat pants) Nonetheless, we looked awesome. A gangster Winnie the Pooh! So we learned the Hundred Acre Wood's theme song and rapped it! Genius! However, when we showed up at the skating rink, there was another group dressed up like Pooh and his friends too! FAIL. :)

Emily Rowden

Major: English

Hometown: Longview, Texas

Activities/Positions at TNU: Freshman and sophomore SGA, ASB director of social life 2009-2010, yoga instructor, TrevEchoes staff

Future Plans: Take over the world!

Favorite TNU Memory: Maybe one time my old roommate and I (who happens to be a current Trevecca employee) decided we were going to paint on our wall with some glow in the dark paint in an attempt to scare the people that were moving in the next year. We thought the paint would only show up in the dark; we were wrong. We wrote on the wall "THEY ARE WATCHING YOU" and smeared a handprint only to find out that you could see it perfectly with the lights on. After several days of sleeping on the living room couch because it scared us and failed attempts at painting over it, we were handed a heavy fine. It was worth it though, because even some administrators came down to see it and laughed. Also, you can still see it through the paint they used to cover it up.

Holly Rudge

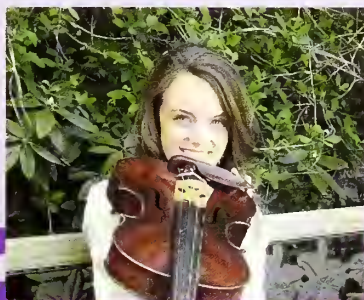

Major: Business administration and music liberal arts

Hometown: Brentwood, Tennessee

Activities/Positions at TNU: Covenant Choir, secretary, member of the year, '07-'08; Madrigalians president, co-member of the year '10-'11, secretary/treasurer, '09-'10; Trevecca Symphony Orchestra, '07-'11; fall musical pit orchestra member, '07-'10; Oklahoma! cast member, '08; Concerto Competition 2nd place, '08-'10, 1st place, '11; peer mentor, '08-'09; business and music tutor, '08-'11; Honors Society, '08-'11 Dean's List, '08-'11

Future Plans: I am not exactly sure what God has planned for my future, but I know it will somehow involve music, business, and serving him to the best of my ability wherever he leads me. "For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways," declares the LORD. "For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways and My thoughts than your thoughts." Isaiah 55:8-9

Favorite TNU Memory: Even though it hasn't happened yet, I know my favorite memory from my time at Trevecca will be the Madrigalians' 2011 European Tour. We are going to sing in many renowned cathedrals and visit many other famous historical sites. I know this trip will be the trip of a lifetime, a great learning experience and an incredible amount of fun. I mean, seriously, what could be more fun than a trip overseas with 24 of your closest friends?

Who's Who

Kelly Tillson

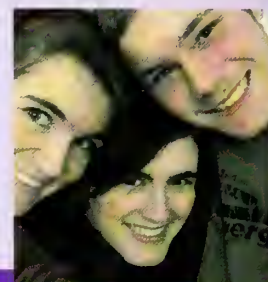

Major: English

Hometown: Slemani, As-Suleimaniyah, Iraq

Activities/Positions at TNU: International Students Association (vice-president, '08-'09; President, '09-'10); King's Kids; Wind Ensemble; Covenant Choir; Choral Union; Trevecca Master Chorale; Student Research Symposium (2008, 2010, 2011); Creative Writing Contest Award in Fiction (2009, 2010, 2011).

Future Plans: After graduation, I hope to pursue graduate study in creative writing and literature, continue in discipleship, write every day, read whenever I want, find a job, dance frequently, plant chicory and morning glories, stay alive, and love people.

Favorite TNU Memory: My most treasured experiences are all the opportunities I was given to present papers or creative work--the Research Symposiums, Legacy readings, and my senior recitation. I love literature, and I love being able to share that with people, especially people whom I love. So many of my professors, friends, and family given me their love and support, and that is what makes these experiences truly unforgettable.

Stefanie Wienecke

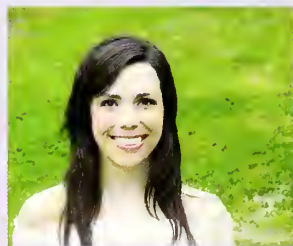

Major: Commercial music with an emphasis in songwriting and arranging

Hometown: Overland Park, Kansas

Activities/Positions at TNU: Madrigalians, NSAI Trevecca Chapter, and the Theatre program, Deans List for 4 years and winner of Songwriter's Challenge.

Future Plans: I am aiming to go to NYC or LA in the fall to audition for multiple performing opportunities. After that (depending on the outcome) I would like to go back to school for a master's in music so that I will have enough education under my belt to teach adjunct voice lessons at a university while still performing in my free time.

Favorite TNU Memory: My favorite TNU memory was my Sophomore year at FNL. It was incredibly funny, but the best part was that after the show, the entire school walked outside to 4 inches of snow on the ground! It was crazy! We all just started running around like mad men throwing snow balls and making snow angels! I will never forget that.

Jackie Winkle

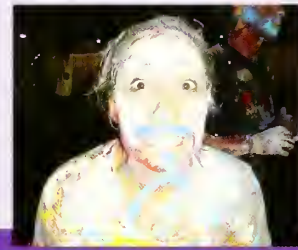

Major: Social work with a minor in behavioral science

Hometown: Loganville, Georgia

Activities/Positions at TNU: SGA, TIA, student marketing group and TNT Volunteer

Future Plans: Stay here in Nashville and hopefully getting a full-time nanny gig until I go back to school to be a child life specialist.

Favorite TNU Memory: Powder puff football in general. Some of my life long friends came from that group of girls!

Congrats Class of 2011!

I want my legacy at Trevecca to be that of passion. I want others to remember me for the passion I demonstrated through my studies, my daily life, and, more important, through my continual search for who God is and what is his will for my life.

Trevecca's legacy to me is also passion. It is a life filled with passion in every aspect with God in the center of it all. It is a passion for others around me, the need in our hurting world, and God's will for my life.

I've been a peer mentor for the past 3 years, and that position has allowed me the opportunity to serve about 16 freshmen every year. I hope that in leaving Trevecca this year my legacy will live on through the amazing people I have had in LEAP class, and that my influence on them (the future of TNU) will have been one characterized by positivity, encouragement, and inspiration to make a difference at Trevecca, in the Nashville area, and in the world.

The greatest gifts Trevecca has given me have come in the form of relationships I have made with friends, faculty, and professors which I know will last long after I leave. These wonderful people have helped shape who I am and aided me along my spiritual journey, making Trevecca a place that will continue to have a lasting impact on my life.

Trevecca's legacy has been learning to be your own person and find out who you are, and choosing what road you want to take. Trevecca gave me opportunities to see how enjoyable Christian life is when you are not alone.

I hope to leave showing that life isn't all about being what people expect you to be, but to be who God wants you to be. He made me as I am and everyone else as He wants, He didn't make me to be someone else. So be who you are to be, striving for best and not just the expected.

I would like to have made a difference in the creative writing field at Trevecca, if only in that, years from now, fellow writers think back and say, "Oh, yeah. I remember Kelly Tillson from Beginning Fiction. What a weird chick, but she wrote some good comments in my margins."

Trevecca's legacy to me is one of men and women of faith who sacrificed a lot to pursue excellence in a godly community by godly means, expected a lot from those who followed them, and have given a lot to those who follow them. I may not always live up to their sacrifices, but I hope that I stayed true to their spirit of conviction.

God has led me on this path to Trevecca to show me who I really am. Some things He has changed and others He has preserved but the challenge has taught me to trust Him rather than myself.

I hope to leave a legacy of passion. I want others to be enflamed with the passion of Christ that inspires compassion for others. I hope that in my life I can allow God to humble me so that others can see the work of His hand not my own.

I want my legacy at Trevecca to be a simple one: for people to one day look at me and say that I lived my life to the fullest potential at Trevecca; that, even through my struggles, I stayed strong and true to myself and God; and that I enjoyed life and tried to help others through their lives. I want my legacy to show that life wasn't about living it alone but with my friends around me.

Trevecca tries to provide the best for its students, and it has influenced the lives of many people. Trevecca is a place for friendships to grow and relationships to prosper. Good ol' TNU has a legacy that will never die.

During my time at Trevecca, God's really been pressing on me the importance and power of prayer, of taking God's word seriously when he tells us to ask, seek, and knock, and the blessings that come from being in a relationship of trust with God. I know I do not by any means have "everything together," but when I think of the impact I'll have on Trevecca—the legacy I'll leave—what I really want is to inspire and encourage intimacy with Christ that permeates and shapes every aspect of life, including how we pray.

Trevecca's legacy that stands out the most to me so far is the emphasis on servant leadership. In high school, I viewed leadership as something only for Type-A personalities who want to dictate those around them or, if not dictate, at least boss around. Now I see that leadership really ought to be more like a shepherd, guiding and protecting out of self-sacrificial love.

I want my legacy to be one of happiness and enjoying the small things in life. It was a total "God thing" that brought me to Trevecca, and he has blown any expectations I've had out of the water with such amazing opportunities to grow and serve. I hope that I'm seen as a genuinely happy person who is always there to greet you with a smile and enjoy the ups and downs of life together. I want to be remembered for my happy, carefree attitude and my honest desire to help everyone in any situation.

In high school I viewed Trevecca as this fun community that worships, lives, and plays together, and even though at times I may lose direction, God continues to bestow his grace on this campus and has provided me, through Trevecca, a beautiful community of friends and growth and learning opportunities that I could never find anywhere else.

I believe Trevecca's legacy for me is that of growth and choice. I have been able to grow in my faith through all the many opportunities on campus, and through the friends I have made, and the guidance of faculty & professors. It also has given me a lot of choices in who I am and what God has called me to.

Lauren Johnson

I want to be remembered at Trevecca as a genuine person, who loved and served God to the best of my ability. Trevecca has provided me with some of the best friends and some of the greatest memories. Being here has challenged me in ways I never imagined, and I've learned more about myself than I knew was possible.

Well...we met each other, also a lot of other fantastic friends. We've been able to experience community that only a small Christian college can give us, and the kick butt education is nice too.

We hope to influence those around us in a way that lets them know they are loved and included. We also want to not take ourselves too seriously and be able to find laughter and joy in all the experiences life gives us.

For me, Trevecca's legacy is about being united in one through Christ. Trevecca is a place for us to grow into the people God designed us to be. It is a place that shapes us and helps us achieve success in the career choice we make.

The legacy I hope to leave is to never forget who you are and who God wants you to be. It is very important to push yourself and strive to be the best that you can. Trevecca will help me achieve all my goals and career choice and, most important, deepen my faith in God.

The legacy that Trevecca left in my life has been that I've met lifelong friends, and I met my girl.

That happiness is right where you least expect it, but if you go looking for it, you won't find it...let it come to you. That's not deep, I'm just sayin'! haha

Women's Soccer

Every athlete's dream is to play his or her sport of choosing in college. That dream came true for the 22 girls on the women's soccer team this year. After they navigate the recruiting process, prospective team members visit the campus to make sure they will fit into the atmosphere here at Trevecca—academically, spiritually, and socially. Eight freshmen completed that process and joined the team this year.

The team had three highlights this season. Wins against Bethel and Campbellsville were important high points. The win against Bethel was the more exciting one because it was the first time the Trevecca women had ever beaten Bethel at soccer and because Bethel was a “top-of-the-conference team.” These two wins brought the team a great sense of confidence. Another highlight was the pre-season mission trip the team took to the Bahamas, where they conducted a soccer camp for underprivileged children in that area.

Volleyball

The women's volleyball team began its third year with many new players and younger ones. Eight of the eleven players were freshmen and sophomores.

This year was the team's third year with Coach Crowley leading it. She focused on developing unity and chemistry and laying a foundation for future teams that included loyalty, hard work, positive attitudes, and friendships. Crowley wanted to make sure that the team became a strong, tightly knitted group of players.

The season began strong when the team beat its first two opponents in late August. The team struggled throughout September but came out with a big win over Cumberland and a three-game winning streak against Lyon, Bethel, and Freed-Hardeman. The team was excited to beat Freed-Hardeman in the away game, breaking Freed's twenty consecutive wins on its home court. The team went on to meet Cumberland in the 2010 TranSouth Championship, where it lost 24-12. Coach Crowley described the season: "We ended the season playing extremely well and finished strong. We have a solid foundation for the future and a promising future."

Men's Basketball

The Trevecca men's basketball team had a solid start when it pulled out an exciting win during Homecoming against Michigan-Dearborn. The team then won the next two home games, bringing its record to -0, and then lost the next four away games. The men's season was a difficult journey, ending when Freed-Hardeman defeated them in the quarterfinals of the NAIA Championship. Their record for the season was 1-18. Michael France became the 37th player in Trevecca's history to reach the 1,000-career -point mark.

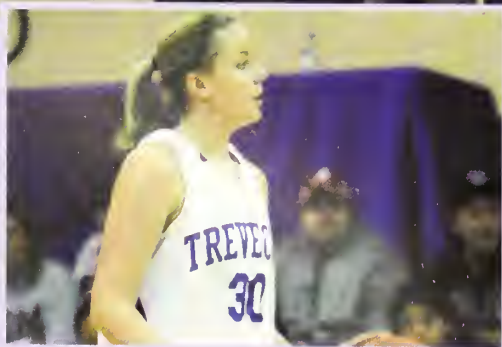

Individually, the team's members were recognized numerous times. Michael France was named Preseason Player of the Year and was named to the TranSouth All American Third Team. Camden Jordan, Blake Carden, and Ryan Eilermann were named TranSouth Scholar-Athletes.

Women's Basketball

The Lady Trojans' season got off to a slow start with the loss to Mount Vernon Nazarene University during Homecoming. The women quickly regrouped and won their next home game against Avila University. After losing some away games, they staged an upset against North Georgia. Their success then fluctuated as they won and lost on the road. Back at home, they triumphed over Blue Mountain and lost a close game to Bethel. In February when Krispy Kreme hosted the annual "Kreme Cumberland," the Lady Trojans did, in fact, cream the Cumberland team, and won Trevecca a very important game. In the TranSouth Quarterfinals, they met their end at the hands of Lyon College. They ended with a record of 13-15. KC VanAtta ended her career with 1,384 total points and a Trevecca record of 243 three-point baskets.

The players had a good year, overall. Heather Miller, Chelsey Taylor, Kristen Majors, and Elizabeth Pentecost were all named TranSouth Scholar-Athletes. Chelsey was named the previous two years as well. Rachel Bollinger was named to the TranSouth All-American Freshman Team, and London Elie was given Honorable Mention on the TranSouth All-American First Team. Coach VanAtta was ranked sixth in the NAIA with 414 career wins at Trevecca. At the beginning of his seventh season, in the fall of 2011, he will have moved up to fifth.

Men's Soccer

This year's men's soccer team was composed of even numbers of freshmen and sophomores and juniors and seniors. The balanced composition presented ample opportunities for more experienced players to fill leadership roles and help the new teammates with their game. Coach Leavy, who was in his second year of coaching the team, was encouraged that the freshmen began to improve their skills and that the older players allowed them to take the lead.

The men had a rough season, ending with a 5-10-1 record. A victory came late in October when the Trevecca men pulled out a victory over rival Cumberland. They went on to lose against Union on Trevecca's senior night. Eight Trojans were honored as TranSouth Scholar-Athletes: Javier Delgado, Dibran Rexhepi, Darragh Bugter, Benji Bussell, Jordan Enix, Josh Forth, Chet Hemenway, and Zach Trobaugh. Hayden Coffman was awarded a spot on the All-TranSouth First Team, and Benji Bussell was named to the All-TranSouth Second Team.

Men's Golf

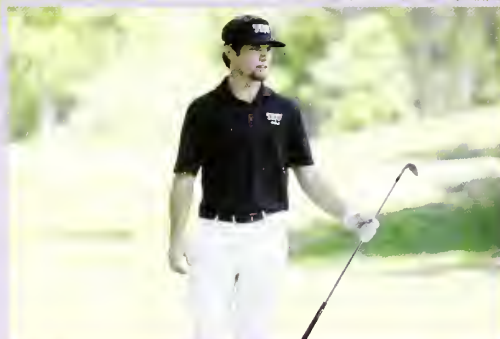

The 2010-2011 Trevecca men's golf program turned in its best season to date. Led by seniors Grant Moffett (San Diego, Calif.) and Bobby Humburg (Port St. Lucie, Fla.), Trevecca competed in every tournament it played. Coach Robbie Wilson entered his fifth season of coaching and witnessed numerous school records broken and the graduation of his first recruiting class. "Grant and Bobby bought into our program four years ago when not many people would," stated Coach Wilson. "I think that action shows what kind of character they have, and our success this season wouldn't have been realized without their play and leadership."

On the course, junior Joey Bradley (Centerville, Tenn.), led the team in scoring average (73.9), tournament victories (2), and top-5 (4) finishes. Moffett and David Saldana were named TranSouth All-Conference based on their play at the TranSouth Championships. Moffett (73-73-71) and Saldana (71-71-75) turned in their best performances when their help counted most. "I can't say enough about the effort and determination the guys put forth at conference," stated Coach Wilson. "Just a few shots kept us from going to the national tournament."

The team also participated in community service projects including Habitat for Humanity and worked with the Napier Middle School children. Moffett, Humburg, Skip Jones, and Saldana were named TranSouth Scholar-Athletes.

Women's Golf

The basic idea of playing competitive golf is to shoot as low a score as possible. When the score is really low, the positive emotions run really high. However, when the score is higher than one hopes, the emotional low seems to hang around a while. Such was often the case for Trevecca's 2010-2011 women's golf team. In a season that saw the team win one tournament and shatter the all-time record for low score for 36 holes and have an individual medalist (Ashley Scism) win four tournaments, there were plenty of highs. Unfortunately, there were some other outings that didn't produce the hoped-for results. Head coach, Michael Johnson, described the season this way: "Golf is a lot like life in the sense that not every shot lands exactly where you hope it might, but you still have to finish the round. Our team showed great promise this year, and I think we'll be back in a very strong way next season."

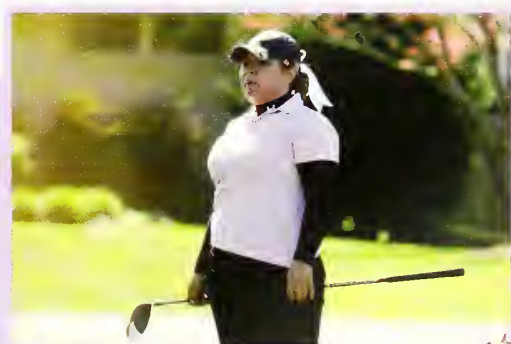

Congratulations to Whitney Phillips, Maddie Privott, and Ashley Scism for being named Transouth Scholar-Athletes. Scism is also an NAIA Scholar-Athlete for 2010-11. Additionally, Scism was the 2011 Player of the Year for the conference.

Softball

The 2011 softball season will be remembered as one of Trevecca's all-time top athletic accomplishments. The team had high expectations from the beginning after being ranked in the top 10 in the nation all year and finishing the season as the #2 team in the final poll, the highest ever by a Trevecca athletic team. The team was fortunate to have a group of seniors—Karli Rush, Kelsey Lantrip, Melinda Patterson and Monica West—who were very important in helping the team win its second straight TranSouth Conference Championship.

The Lady Trojans were led by TranSouth Pitcher of Year Lauren Baker who finished the regular season with the conference's best wins-losses ERA and record. Newcomer Haylee Rogers led the conference in home runs, and Karli Rush, field general of the team, finished her career as the team's top hitter while limiting opponents from taking extra bases from her catcher position. The team had a 20-game winning streak and ended the season with the best win/lost percentage of any Trevecca softball team in history.

The season ended at the NAIA Nationals when Trevecca was defeated by Oregon Tech, the eventual national champions; however, the 2010-2011 Trevecca softball team will be remembered as one of the great ones in Trevecca history.

Baseball

During the 2011 season Trevecca's baseball team battled to a second place finish in the TranSouth Athletic Conference, finishing 18-6 in conference play, 35-22 overall, and 19-11 against ranked teams. Trevecca opened the season with a 6-1 record. Four of those wins were against teams receiving votes for the NAIA Top 25. As conference play began, Trevecca took two of three at defending NAIA-champion Cumberland University. Trevecca was the only team to win a series against Cumberland, who won the conference, and third-place Union. Both of those series were on the road.

Trevecca pitchers Craig Stem and PJ Francescon were drafted in the 2011 Major League Baseball Amateur Draft. It was the first time two Trojans were drafted in the same MLB Draft. The team won numerous awards. Jackson Nichols and Caleb Longshore earned a place on the 2011 Daktronics-NAIA Scholar-Athlete List. Jordan Foreman was selected to the 2011 TranSouth Rawlings Gold Glove Team. Head Coach Jonathan Burton was named the 2011 Transouth Coach of the Year. Six Trojans—Mitch McClay, Chad Reynolds, Jordan Foreman, Matt Tidwell, Dylan Kuhn, and Craig Steam were selected to the 2011 All-TranSouth Team. All but Stem were on the first team.

Fifteen Trojans, more than half of the team, were named 2011 TranSouth Scholar-Athletes: Luke Fennell, Matt Dobbins, Codi Webb, Corey Crunk, Chase Birdwell, Craig Stem, Mitch McClay, Dylan Kuhn, Matt Owens, Zach Polzin, Scott Lynn, Trae Weiss, Chad McDaniel, Jackson Nichols, Caleb Longshore.

Following the season, Coach Jonathan Burton announced his resignation in order to take another head coaching position. He ended his three-year Trevecca career with a 99-68 record. He was 39-26 in TranSouth Conference games.

Cheerleading

The cheerleading program at Trevecca has come a long way since cheerleading was begun at Trevecca in the 1950s, when cheerleading was a part of the intramural program. Each intramural team—Alpha, Beta, Theta, Delta—had its own squad of cheerleaders.

Today's Trevecca cheerleaders, coached by Mary Lou Del Rio, now cheer at the men's and women's basketball. As part of their commitment to the improvement of their sport, they developed a routine for the Homecoming pep rally and worked hard to engage the students in the cheering process.

"We want the students to get involved in cheering at the games, and we did a lot of things to achieve that. Goal. We have more interactive cheers during timeouts, and we use the floor a lot more than we used to," said Leigh Ann Gordon, a senior on the squad.

Men's Cross Country

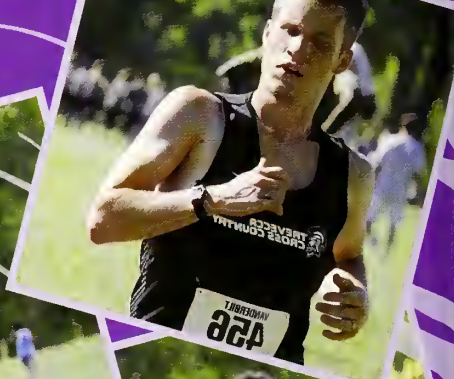

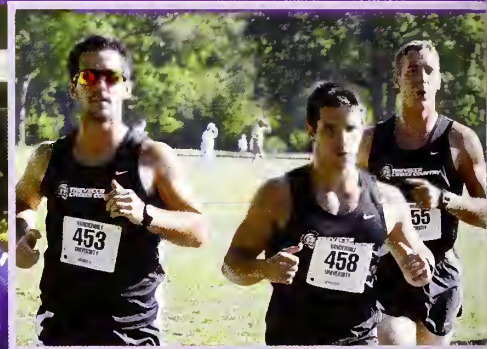

For the first time in almost 40 years, Trevecca offered its students the opportunity to participate in cross-country track. The program was canceled in 1978, but work began in late 2009 to bring back the program so that Trevecca could offer more opportunities for students.

The University began by tapping Dean Cole to lead both men's and women's cross country. Cole, who had been coaching cross-country for ten years, began recruiting runners for the team. The track around the baseball field was repaved for the team, and when the new school year started, training began.

The men's team had its first meet on September 3 at Percy Warner Park. The men focused on building team unity and improving their time. By their third meet, each runner had improved his time significantly. The team competed in the TranSouth Championship race and came in fifth. Mark Hewitt and Frank Wheeler were named Daktronics-NAIA Scholar-Athletes. In October, Mark Mitchel was named runner of the week. Also in October, the TranSouth Conference held a banquet in honor of its scholar-athletes, and three Trojans were credited for their academic excellence—Mark Hewitt, Frank Wheeler, and Alex Hodge. Though the team will lose a few seniors, the runners look forward to the future of cross country at Trevecca.

Women's Cross Country

In 2009 when Trevecca reinstated cross country on its list of intercollegiate sports, women's cross country was included—a new “first” for Trevecca. Dean Cole, cross country coach, began looking for women who wanted to be part of this new team, and nine women signed up.

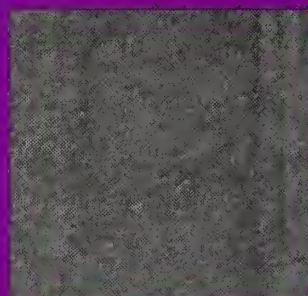

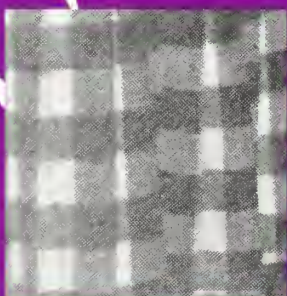

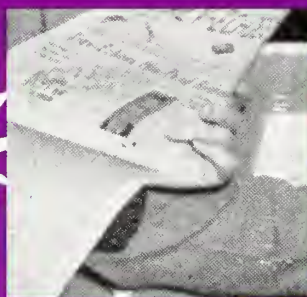

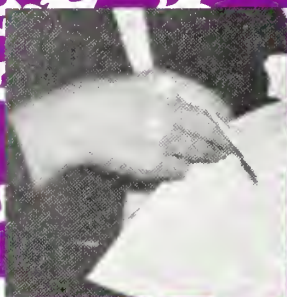

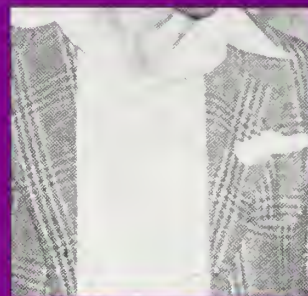

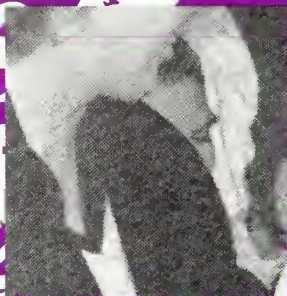

The women had their first meet on September 3 at Percy Warner Park, and they competed in four others. Their times and performances improved at every meet. The NAIA qualifier meet was held on November 5 at Percy Warner Park. Emily Smith finished 28 out of 63, with a personal best time of 22:50. CJ Childs was named a Daktronics-NAIA Scholar-Athlete. The women's cross-country team at Trevecca has laid a solid foundation for excellence in the coming years.

Summer Ministry Teams

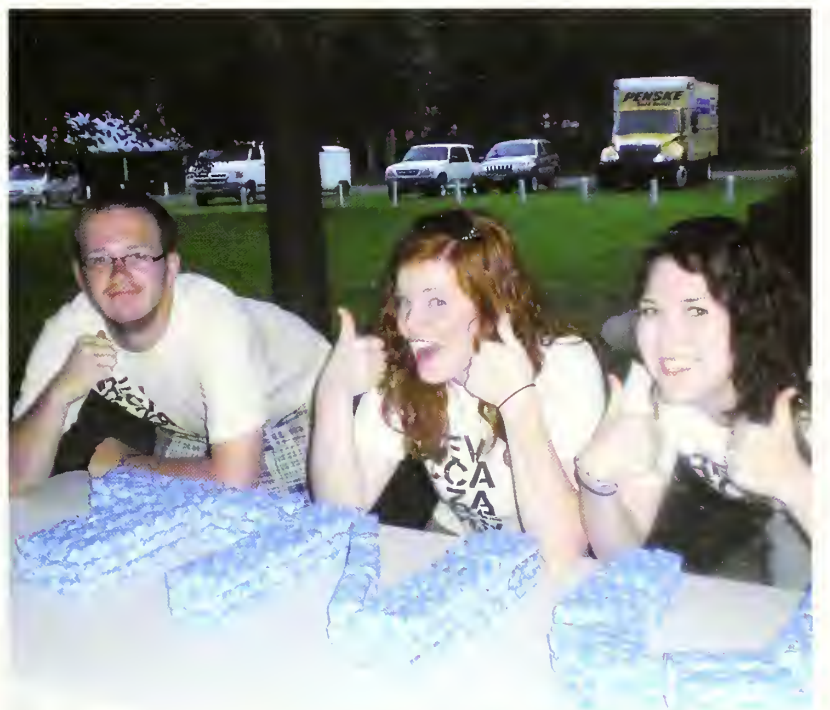

In the Southeast at a Church of the Nazarene camp or an event sponsored by Nazarene Youth International (NYI), Trevecca students come to promote the University. Under the direction of the Office of Admissions, these teams represent Trevecca.

Summer Ministry Teams (SMT) lead worship or recreation and make connections with prospective students for Trevecca. Working with event leaders, SMTs lead planned activities or plan new activities for event participants. If the job is worship, they provide music that will cultivate a spirit of worship. All applicants for the SMT must be flexible and willing to do whatever is necessary. Michael Cantrell, director of traditional undergraduate admissions, directs the SMTs. He explained their work: "Their primary function is relationship building with students, youth pastors, and other NYI leaders."

SMTs play a large role in advertising Trevecca. Some teenagers may never have heard of Trevecca before meeting an SMT member. While this task may not seem like a big deal to the naked eye, it is a ministry in itself, urging students to a higher calling and, at the very least, establishing Christ-based relationships.

TIA

Trevecca Intramural Association

The Trevecca Intramurals Association is an integral part of the social life of each student. The 2010-2011 school year saw more than 250 students participate in such sports as flag football, basketball, softball, and soccer. Other sports such as dodgeball, sand volleyball, ultimate Frisbee, and a cornhole tournament also proved to be very popular and great ways to bring Trevecca students together in fellowship. TIA student director Bobby Humburg gave Trevecca Intramurals Athletics great leadership. In the future plans call for TIA to grow in both numbers and activities for Trevecca's students.

Resident Hall Assistants

Trevecca's resident assistants (RAs) have the unique job of being the first people new students meet. The RAs decorate their halls before the students arrive, an activity that is an enjoyable break in hectic schedules. Not only do they try to create a welcoming environment, they open up their rooms and lives to anyone who needs them.

Members of dorms and breezeways constantly prepare for activities, whether it's a pot luck supper, a chips and salsa night, or something as simple as a movie. During the holidays students gather to roast marshmallows, carve pumpkins, and make home-made Christmas decorations. Activities are not always planned, though. Sometimes residents make spontaneous midnight runs for food or form all-night study groups around a holiday movie.

Sadie Wood, an RA for the last three years, remembers one of her favorite moments: "I will never forget building a giant fort with some of my residents in my room in Tennessee Hall; we used cardboard boxes that I got from Purity. That activity was ridiculous and so fun! We had chips and salsa, of course." RAs have real work to do, like clean room checks and lobby duty, serious jobs to ensure that students are enjoying a safe and happy campus life. But, the best memories are made with many friends, creativity, and, of course, food.

TrevEchoes

TrevEchoes, the student-produced University newspaper, has undergone a series of changes in the past few years. Since the creation of the Journalism Program three years ago, the majority of the staff is composed of journalism majors or minors, or English majors, all having some type of language-based major. The content and style of the paper has evolved, giving it a more suave, professional look, and presenting a more unbiased take on things. One of the major changes was the expansion of the sports page to two pages, enhancing both the quality and the quantity of the coverage.

This year the paper was printed monthly, with four issues in the fall, and five in the spring semester. Anywhere from 1000 to 1600 copies are printed each time, and prospective students receive a copy of the TrevEchoes so that they can learn about Trevecca from the student perspective.

The TrevEchoes staff is composed of the following: Morgan Daniels, editor-in-chief; Adam Wadding, assistant editor; Amy Taylor, copy editor; and Haley Knowles, design editor. They have been shaped the paper into a more credible source of information as they have learned the skills of their trade. TrevEchoes can only continue to get better from here.

Darda

A legacy of history

Creating Trevecca's yearbook is a long-term project. The editor begins work during summer vacation, planning the contents and constructing the "ladder," the page-by-page outline of the book's contents. The effort kicks into high gear when school begins in the fall, when the editor must form the staff, assign responsibilities, begin the process of ensuring photo coverage of campus events, and preparing for the first deadline in October. While all of these activities are underway, the yearbook for the previous year arrives, and the yearbook staff makes sure that the new book is distributed to students. Submission deadlines occur monthly, and the final deadline is always a week after the spring semester final exam week.

This process of creating the Darda is a serious endeavor because that book serves an important role: It is a history book about Trevecca. While students view the book as a fun record of their year at Trevecca, their activities and friendships, other parts of the University value the Darda for the historic record that its pages contain. The members of this year's Darda staff, led by editor Dana Franchetti, left their legacies on these pages—in the stories that they captured, in the moments of Trevecca life caught in the photos, in the pieces of Trevecca and its persons found in these pages. Thank you, 2011 Darda staff.

Student Government Association

Trevecca's Student Government Association (SGA) works to help students have an impact on the people around them. This year SGA added new features and events, such as "What's Up, Trevecca?", a weekly video produced by Todd Osborne, SGA director of communication. Todd announces the weekly events in a humorous way that draws students' attention. SGA also plans traditional events—Homecoming, Welcome Week, Trojan Idol, and Friday Night Live—and all-school service projects to help students connect with the community around them. During the fall semester, sixty students helped Professor Jason Adkins begin the renovation of an apartment building in Chestnut Hill that is part of his plan to improve that community, a plan that includes the building of a greenhouse and the planting of an orchard.

The work of SGA is assisted by the contributions of the four classes, each of whom has a council that plans specific events for that class and the school. Each class had its own service projects that targeted the community around Trevecca. Some planted trees in Chestnut Hill while others have worked with Habitat for Humanity. This year the junior class was in charge of Homecoming coronation and the Junior-Senior Banquet. Trevecca's student understand that to have fun and be effective they must work together first, and SGA facilitates that goal in a variety of ways.

Mads

The Madrigalians, affectionately known as the “Mads,” is a musical group specializing in music literature from a broad time period—from modern times all the way back to the 16th century. Members are selected by audition, and Tim Cierkpe is the director.

The Mads perform at various churches and have toured the United States as well as Europe. In May the Mads made their sixth European tour—to Greece, Italy, Austria, Germany, France, and Great Britain. They sold studio-quality CDs to fund their tour. Additionally, the Mads produces two major events each year: Serenade in Time, a joint concert with the Trevecca Symphony Orchestra in the fall, and the spring Madrigal Dinners.

Lauren Brown, a member of Mads, describes the group: “Madrigalians is a close-knit vocal ensemble that spreads the sound of music in its finest forms.”

Singin' in the Rain

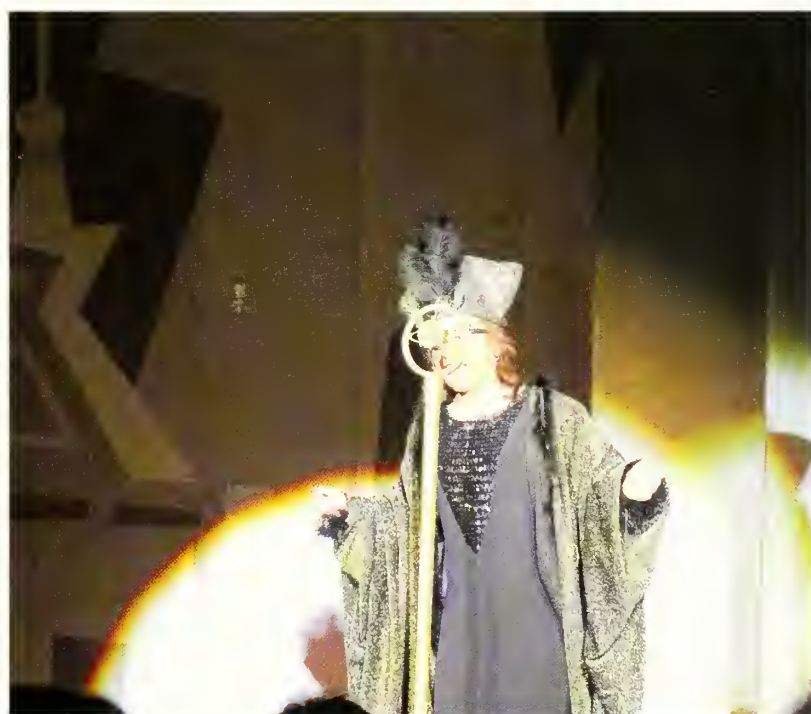

Trevecca's drama department took a different path with the fall drama this year with its presentation of Singin' in the Rain. This 1950s musical depicts a comic view of Hollywood along with a classic romance. The lead roles were played by Nathan Curry, T. J. Adams, Carlie Jo Moore, Lydia Carraway, Ben Braselton, and Merri Duff; professors Roy Philip and Steve Hoskins were also part of the cast.

Dozens of behind-the-scenes workers helped make the production happen. The cast performed this two-and-a-half-hour show seven times for the general public and twice for middle and high schools in the surrounding area, a total of nine performances. Auditions were held over the course of two days followed by callbacks. The production staff included director Jeff Frame, music director Shreyas Patel, and assistant director and choreographer Cassie Hamilton.

The Department of Communications Studies uses the money from ticket sales to cover the expense of the play and future ones.

The cast of Singin' in the Rain at the end of their closing number and performance

I feel so blessed to have been able to work with such a great cast and crew. It was an amazing experience, one that I will always cherish and hold dear to my heart. This show was not only electric and filled with amazing performances, but it also taught us that no matter what life throws at you, just keep smiling and keep singing in the rain!" Nathan Curry

Songs for a New World

“The wise woman does what she knows.
If it’s fighting she fights, if it’s sewing she sews.’ These lines spoke to me because in the moment of desperation, the character clung to her flag making to get her through the tough moments.”

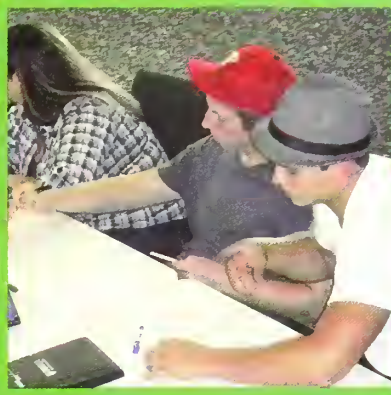

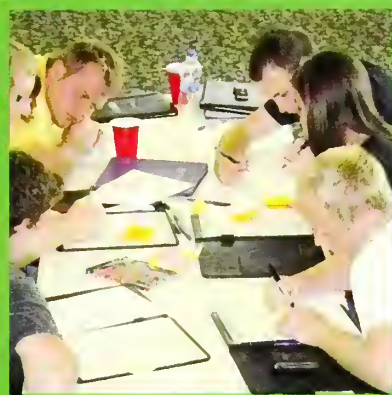

-Kathleen Dunn

Music Ministry Teams

EverPraise: Bethany King, Brittany Green, Rebekah Edwards, Lindsey Harper, Zachary Shockley, Jonathan Roberts, Andrew Silvas

“Being in EverPraise has been great for many reasons, but the thing I love the most is being able to use my skill set completely for the glory of God. I’ve been blessed with ability and opportunity, and I get to use that to show the love of Christ to different kids and adults on a weekly basis. It’s been an incredible ride.”

-Jonathan Roberts

Taste the Nations

Taste the Nations, a program sponsored by the International Students Association at Trevecca, provides Trevecca's international students an opportunity to display the uniqueness of their countries and cultures through stories, songs, cultural dances, skits, and other performances. It also gives members of the Trevecca community a chance to learn more about their international peers and to appreciate more deeply the cultures that they represent.

The night begins with a sampling of various types of international foods that are prepared by the international students and other members of the Trevecca community. The program often addresses the challenges (many times in humorous ways) that international students face in leaving not only their homes but also their countries to pursue an education. Immersing themselves in a brand new culture while trying to keep up with academic demands can be challenging for these students. One of the highlights of the program is a reading of a selected portion of scripture in as many as fifteen different languages—readings that accentuate and celebrate the love of Christ that unites all Christians in spite of all of their differences.

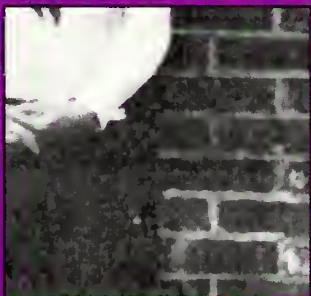

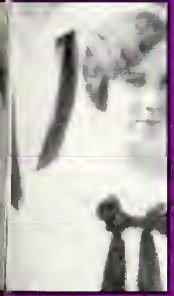

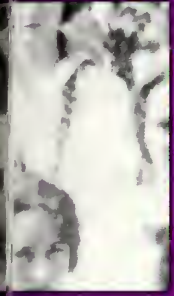

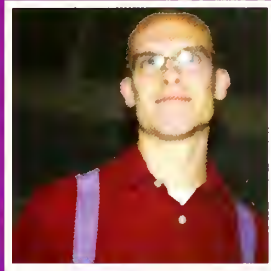

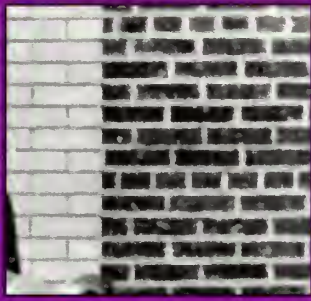

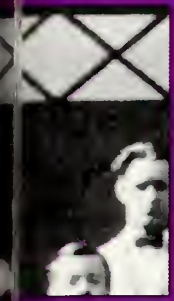

Participants in Taste the Nations show off their costumes.

Kelly Tillson

Our dearest Kelly,

As your college graduation approaches, we remind you that our love for you is not made deeper because of your grand scholastic achievements. While we celebrate the feats of classroom daring which culminate in a richly deserved degree, our love grows because you are our child and each day with you is a privilege and a joy. Remain steady and strong in the knowledge that the God who cherishes you also orders your steps.

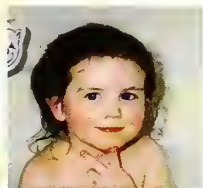

With enduring love,

-Dad and Mom

Congratulations, Kelly!
